

WALNUT STREET PAVING

Newton Chamber of Commerce Working on an Interesting Problem

Another effort is being made by the Newton Chamber of Commerce, through its Board of Directors and street railway committee, to bring about a solution of the resurfacing problem on Walnut street, where residents of Newtonville residing on and near that street from Newtonville Square to Commonwealth Avenue, have been striving for two or three years to secure some relief from the continuous noise resulting from antiquated street railway equipment, automobilists have complained of rough riding conditions, and city officials and others have characterized conditions as dangerous because of the present condition of the block paving between and immediately adjacent to the street railway tracks on that thoroughfare.

Through the efforts of the Chamber street railway committee, an and upon the recommendation of Mayor Childs, an appropriation was made last year by the Board of Aldermen to correct this condition, too late in the year to permit the improvement because of weather conditions. Having reverted to the surplus fund at the end of the year, that appropriation is no longer available and it has been reported that the sentiment of the present Aldermanic Board is not in favor of the entire expense being assumed by the city, believing that the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company should assume a part of it, at least to the extent of paying as much as it would cost them to repair and relay the present surface.

Upon the invitation of the Chamber Directorate, President Pitt F. Drew and General Manager Harry H. Hanson of the street railway company, attended a luncheon conference at the Boston City Club, last Friday, with several city officials and directors of the Chamber, Mayor Edwin O. Childs and City Solicitor Joseph W. Bartlett being present as members of the latter group. As a result of the conference, Mayor Childs is awaiting word from street railway officials as to whether a proposed division of expense suggested and agreed upon by those present as apparently the best possible solution of the problem would be acceptable to the directors of the street railway company.

George J. Martin, vice-president of the Chamber and chairman of the committee on street railway service and improvements, which took the initiative nearly a year ago in an effort to bring about some co-operative agreement between the city government and the street railway system that would provide a solution to the Walnut Street surfacing problem, presided at the conference. Others present, in addition to Mayor Childs, City Solicitor Bartlett, and President Drew and General Manager Hanson of the street railway company, were Street Commissioner George E. Stuart, City Engineer Edwin H. Rogers, and Alderman Roy V. Collins, one of the representatives of Ward 2, in the Aldermanic Board and a member of the Aldermanic committee on finance, with Frank L. Richardson, Henry D. Lloyd, Thomas J. Sullivan, Joseph A. Bryant, John H. Gordon, and George A. Schade of the Chamber Directorate, and the Secretary.

That the present condition of the paving in connection with the street railway tracks, on Walnut street, is exceedingly undesirable was generally admitted by all present, and that the situation should be improved as soon as possible. It was also agreed that the proper method of remedying existing conditions was to replace the present block paving with either a macadam or concrete surface, preferably the latter, the chief problem being to determine upon some division of expense that would be fair to the city and street railway company, and satisfactory to both.

The conference was confined to that section of Walnut street from Newtonville Square to Commonwealth Avenue, a concrete surface being agreed upon as the most desirable. It was estimated that this would cost approximately $3.25 per square yard, the total amount of new surface required being in excess of 4000 square yards. The street railway company is prepared to install new and heavier rails at any time.

POLICE NEWS

A ruling was given by Judge Bacon in the Newton District Court Wednesday morning, contrary to Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin's previous ruling that a man's license is automatically suspended when he is convicted of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Hugh Cumminskey of Brighton was convicted of operating while under the influence of liquor, some time ago, in Newton. Notice was sent to the Newton police that his license had been revoked. Motorcycle officer Dowling saw Cumminskey operating his car a few days ago, stopped him and found that he had his license and registration with him. Cumminskey convinced the court that he had never received the registered letter sent to him by Goodwin, asking him to return his license and registration and he was found not guilty, despite the plea made by W. X. Haley of the registrar's department that Cumminskey should be found guilty.

Mr. Walter G. Collagan, a well known West Newton druggist, died at Waverley, on Sunday, July 29.

He was born September 7, 1876 in Philadelphia, and came with his mother to West Newton, when a small boy, and made his home at 87 Webster park, where he has lived for the past forty years.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Abbot Bassett of Newtonville Observe 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Abbot Bassett celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home on Central avenue last evening.

At their home yesterday an informal reception was held from 4 until 9 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Bassett were assisted by their two daughters, Mrs. Royal T. Lapham and Miss Marion Bassett, both of Newtonville. Mrs. Lapham wore her mother's wedding gown. About one hundred relatives and friends were present.

Many gifts of flowers were received and the American League of Wheelmen of which Mr. Bassett is president, presented the couple with a purse of gold.

Mr. Thomas H. Hall read an original poem, also a poem written by Mr. Nixon Waterman, a personal friend of Mr. Bassett.

There were present two grandchildren, the daughters of Mrs. Lapham and many relatives from Lynn, Saugus, and Salem, also Mrs. Bassett's sister from Orleans.

Mr. Bassett is an native of Chelsea, being born there March 10, 1845. He was a member of the first class graduated from the Williams School and after attending the high school, engaged in the hardware business. In 1872, he entered the employ of "The Chelsea Public," a daily newspaper, as a reporter. Later he became affiliated with the "Chelsea News" and was made editor in 1878.

His interest in cycling dates back to the time of his employment, in 1881, as business manager of The Bicycling World, published at Pemberton square. He was later made associate editor of the publication, and finally succeeded Josiah S. Dean as editor-in-chief. He left in 1886, to start a journal of his own, devoted to news of the sport, which was called The Cycle. This was published at 22 School street, and was issued weekly until January of the following year, when Mr. Bassett gave it up to accept the position of secretary of the League of American Wheelmen, which had been organized about eight years previously. The position carried with it also the editorship of the league's official publication known as the Official Bulletin.

Mr. Bassett gained international prominence when in 1883 he made the first American century run on a tricycle, establishing a record of 104 1/2 miles in sixteen and one half hours. Mr. Bassett started from Chelsea early in the morning accompanied by Frank M. Gilley, who was mounted on a bicycle. The course taken lay through Everett, Malden, Medford, Somerville, Cambridge, Brighton, Newton, South Natick, back to Malden, Revere, through Chelsea again, then Lynn, Swampscott, Salem, Beverly, Wrentham, Hamilton, Ipswich, where a fifteen-minute rest was taken; and back to Chelsea. Gilley withdrew after having covered about half the distance. Mr. Bassett's average speed during the trip was seven miles per hour. Two mileage indicators were mounted on his wheel in order that an accurate reading of the distance covered might be obtained. The best previous record for a day's travel was seventy-two miles and had been made by Mr. Bassett himself.

Mrs. Bassett, who was Miss Helen E. Drew of Chelsea, previous to her marriage, was also a cycling enthusiast and a clipping from the Boston Journal of a date more than thirty years old, bears witness to the fact that "Mr. and Mrs. Abbot Bassett made a trip from Chelsea to Concord and return, a distance of more than thirty miles, yesterday on a tandem bicycle."

Filling Cracks.

If a cheap deal cupboard or table has developed severe signs of wood shrinking, fill the cracks with the following mixture: Shred up some newspaper into very small pieces and boil it with glue until the whole becomes very stiff. Fill the cracks while the mixture is still hot, and paint over when the filling is set and cold.

SMITH-KNOWLTON

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John R.
Knudsen, 22 Terrace avenue, Newton Highlands, was the scene of a very pretty wedding last Wednesday afternoon. The parties most concerned were their daughter, Miss Marjorie Knudsen and Mr. Charles L. Smith of Waltham. The house was in fine array for the occasion, the parlor having one corner arranged with a bower effect, evergreen and daisies being tastefully used with a wedding bell and festoons to heighten the decorative scheme. Palms and ferns were also used with fine taste.

Promptly at two the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was rendered by Miss Katherine Knudsen, a sister to the bride, and the bridal party was ushered into the room by Mr. Andrew N.
Schwab who served as best man. The bride was charming in a costume of sand crepe de chine with Egyptian lace overdress and wore as the gift of the groom, a handsome platinum pin with diamond and sapphire settings. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Frances J. Power of Needham Heights. She was attractively gowned in a dress of gray canton crepe trimmed with soutache braid. Her bouquet was made up of pink roses.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. P. A. A. Killam, Pastor of the Brighton Avenue Baptist Church, All-ston, and an old friend of the Knudsen family. It was made more impressive by the use of the double ring service and was witnessed by a large company of guests.

Congratulations and a social hour followed which was made more enjoyable by the music furnished by the pianist which was of unusual merit.
Dainty wedding refreshments were served by Caterer Delesdernier.

The wedding gifts were prettily displayed in an adjoining room and represented the good will of many friends. All were useful and were calculated to render good service in the home that will be located in Waltham.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Smith are held in high regard by a wide circle of acquaintances. Mrs. Smith formerly held a position in the office of the Fire Insurance Stamping Company in Boston.

Mr. Smith is a representative of the Franklin Motor Company of Boston.
They left immediately on an extended trip, touring New Hampshire, part of Canada and New York State.

Among the out-of-town guests were:
Mrs. Robert Cassidy of East Boston, and Mr. George R. Dority of Lynn, Mr.
Dority being a grandfather to the bride.

NEWTON MAN INJURED

Clifford E. Weed, of 94 Floral street, Newton Highlands, sustained multiple injuries to the lower part of his body Wednesday afternoon, when he was pinned against the wall of the building at 385 Atlantic avenue, by an automobile truck which became unmanageable, bounded over the curbing and slid across the sidewalk.

At the Relief Hospital, Weed was found to be suffering from a fracture of the left knee, contusions and abrasions of both ankles.

The truck was being operated at the time by James Maguire of 74 Rutland street, South End. It is owned by H.
W. Hildreth of 5 "T" Wharf, the police say.

The truck shattered a plate glass window in the office of the M. A. Palmer Company showering the desks in the office with broken glass.

ENFORCING THE LAW

An African sultan visiting London declared that the most impressive thing in the metropolis was the power of the man who could halt a roaring stream of traffic with a wave of his white-gloved hand. The traffic policeman is a familiar figure to us, and we realize that his power lies in the delegation of our own rights. But traffic laws or any other laws are only good when they are carefully considered, deliberately made, and then strictly enforced.

"I know no method to secure the repeal of bad or obnoxious laws so effective as their stringent execution," said U. S. Grant in an inaugural address. Laws are made by duly elected and constituted authority; therefore the course should be plain; obey the law of the land until such a time as universal approbation or general clamor for its repeal shall show that the law is a good or a bad one. This does not excuse those having the responsibility of enforcement from intelligently interpreting and enforcing the law.

Just laws do not restrain decent citizens for the upright citizen asks nothing but justice for either himself or others. The hysterical vengeance of cowardly mobs or the tendency to covertly or openly disobey certain laws is at once a reversion to barbarism and a confession of incompetence.
To secure good government of any kind we must take the trouble to pick our authorities wisely and support them vigorously. We must assume the responsibility of our own acts and not try to dodge the issue.

By THE VETERAN MOTORIST

W. R. RASMUSSEN, a representative of the National Safety Council, gives as one of the eight principal causes of traffic accidents "passing a street car going in the same direction on the left on a two-way street." And I recall, from my own observations, at least three smashes that occurred in just that way.

Some States absolutely forbid passing a trolley car on the left under any conditions—and it's a good thing. But even where it isn't prohibited by law, ordinary horse sense always tells me that it's a risky thing to do. And, as a result, I'm never even tempted to try it.

I know how bothersome the trolleys are on a busy street sometimes. But they have to be there, and what's a second or two of time saved if you've got to "take a chance" in doing it? It doesn't pay—in the long run.

DEATH OF MR. WELLS

Mr. John T. Wells, Jr., a well-known resident of Newton, who died last Friday at Faulkner Hospital, was born on Tyler street, Boston, July 23, 1843, his parents being John T. Wells and Sarah Bartlett Wells, both of Boston. He attended Chauncey Hall School. When quite a young man the family moved to Newton and he soon went West and was started in the china business by his uncle, Charles T. Wells, in St. Louis. While in Missouri, during the Civil War, he served in the Missouri State Militia. Mr. Wells returned to Boston in 1869 and continued in the same business with D. B. Stedman, until the Boston fire of 1872, when he identified himself with the concern of Abram French & Co., with which his father was connected for seventy-four years. While there he was the company's foreign buyer. When the French company was given up he formed a partnership with Herbert Burrage and opened a retail store on Boylston street. After a few years, owing to failing health, Mr. Wells withdrew from business and the past six winters he passed in St. Petersburg, Fla., and his summers in Rockport.

In 1885 he married Miss Alice Claffin, daughter of Henry Claffin of Newton, where he resided for some years until he moved to Wellesley Farms. While there he helped to organize the Wellesley Club and attending the Unitarian Church. Mrs. Wells died in 1914.

He is survived by his three children, Eleanor Frances and John Berkeley Wells of Baltimore, Md., and Arthur K. Wells of Cambridge, and two sisters, the Misses Sarah B. Wells and Helen L. Wells of Newton.

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at Mt. Auburn Chapel and Rev. C. A. Drummond of Channing Church officiated.

The Law of the Land, Must and Shall Be Respected

EDITORIAL

The automobile dealers are to make an intensive drive the next few days to secure signatures to place the so called two cent gasoline bill on the ballot at the state election in 1924. If automobile owners would only realize that the success of this movement means the postponement until the summer of 1925, of plans for good road improvements in this state we believe they would discourage this unwise attempt to set aside the judgment of the Legislature.

We are sorry to note that persons convicted of operating automobiles while under the influence of liquor are being fined and not jailed. On just what theory a judge permits these potential murderers to go at large and run the chances of maiming or killing innocent citizens is beyond our comprehension. Every judge who exercises such ill advised clemency ought to be held up to the scorn and contempt of the community he is supposed to protect.

We are glad to note that the city will receive a few thousand dollars more this year from the income tax than in 1922. The receipts this year total $319,826.53 as compared with $315,145.28 last year. This is due to the increase of some 12% in the total income tax in the entire state.

The residents of Waltham, are worrying over the possibility of a 50 cent hair cut. It is suggested that this is a hair raising question, due to the report from Washington, that the cost of governing Waltham has nearly doubled in the past few years.

Figures from the Internal Revenue office indicate that the Republican party has fulfilled its pledges to reduce the burden of taxation. A saving of thirty millions of dollars in taxation between 1922 and 1923 is most commendable.

WALNUT STREET PAVING PROBLEM

of the street railway company that it would cost from 90 cents to one dollar per square yard to relay the present block paving. Because of that fact, it was felt reasonable to ask the street railway company to pay one dollar per yard as the company's share of a new concrete surface, representatives of the city present being generally agreed that the city should not pay the entire cost as has been done in a few similar instances by other cities.

The matter was put up squarely to the street railway company, through an inquiry to ascertain if the street railway company would pay one dollar per yard as its share of the proposed resurfacing expense, the city to pay the remaining $2.25 per yard if this arrangement should meet with the approval of the Aldermanic Board. Because of the program of necessary reconstruction and improvements already contemplated by the street railway system, and the expense involved, it was suggested that a part of the Walnut street improvement might be made this year, and the remainder next year.

GET PEARLS FROM HERRINGS

Humble Denizen of the North Sea Said to Have a Value Not Hitherto Suspected.

A new kind of imitation pearl will shortly be launched, for which we have to thank the humble herring.

The process is secret, and has lately been investigated by a commercial mission from America which has been visiting the Scottish ports. Fish-scales are used, and the substance produced from them is called "chitin."

The artificial pearls are treated with this preparation, and the result is said to give not only the exact phosphorescent glow found in real pearls, but the same velvety feeling. The North sea herrings have proved themselves the best for this purpose.

If this discovery proves to be a really exact imitation—so exact, that is, that even experts will not be able to tell the difference—what will happen to the genuine pearl?

Will people still pay huge prices for merely knowing that the pearls are real, without gaining any additional advantage of glow and appearance?

Meanwhile, the imitations are getting so good that one lady is reported to possess three necklaces—the genuine one, the valuable imitation, and a third less valuable imitation which she wears perpetually, lest the better imitation should be stolen.—Detroit Free Press.

HAVE MANY CURIOUS HABITS

Negritos of the Philippines Mutilate Themselves in Belief That It Makes Them Beautiful.

Many of the Negritos of the Philippines point their front teeth, but not by filing them, as is commonly supposed, says the Detroit News. A chip of wood is held behind the tooth to be operated upon, and the point of a bolo is placed in such a position as to slant across the corner of the tooth to be removed, and a sharp blow on the bolo chips a piece from the tooth. The opposite corner is similarly operated upon.

The Negritos are generally considered to be the true aborigines of the Philippines, and are racially sharply distinct from most other numerous tribes of the islands, and their intelligence is of an exceptionally low order. They ornament their bodies with scar patterns, produced by cutting through the skin with sharp pieces of bamboo, and rubbing dirt into the wounds thus formed in order to infect them and make good bad scars. Men frequently shave the crowns of their heads "in order to let the heat out."

Hunt Egypt's Secrets.

Mightier than the pyramids in its power to guard the secrets of ancient Egypt is the Nile, but when the excavators of the Metropolitan museum return to their work at the pyramid fields of Lisht next season they will go prepared to match the strength of scientific curiosity against that of the great river. This was learned from Albert M. Lythgoe, curator of the Egyptian department at the museum. These fields at Lisht include the pyramids of Amenemhat I. and Sesotris I, the founders of the powerful twelfth dynasty, under which the middle kingdom rose to its maximum glory. These Pharaohs mark the pinnacle of Egypt's second great historical period, as those of the eighteenth dynasty, to which Tut-Ankh-Amen belonged, marked the height of the third.

United States Public Lands.

United States government during the last year has turned over to private citizens of this country 12,904,821 acres of public lands through issuance of patents giving them complete ownership, according to figures compiled by the general land office of the Interior department.

The total equals the acreage embraced in the states of Connecticut, Delaware and Maryland. Titles were given to 9,632,635 acres under the homestead law, which means that constructive home-building will result. Since 1920 over 10,443,647 acres of public land have been thrown open, in which ex-service men of the World war have had preference in filing entries.

When Is It a Fish?

It happened at a Sunday evening lunch, in the home of a six-year-old Indianapolis boy.

The center of attraction at this particular lunch was a plate of sardines, and the father of the youth offered to serve him, saying: "Miner Evans, will you have a sardine?"

"What's a sardine?"

"Why, a sardine is just a fish, and you like fish."

Miner Evans had spent his last summer at a Lake Michigan resort and felt competent to pass on questions concerning fish and fishing, so he drew back in lofty disdain and emphatically declared: "You can't fool me, that's not fish, that's bait."

Japan Importing Less Cotton.

Japan's imports from the United States during March amounted to 37,000,000 yen, a decline of 2,000,000 yen from February and 8,000,000 yen from January, the dropping off during March owed entirely to a decrease in the amount of American cotton imported. All the other principal items imported from the United States showed an increase. Imports of American cotton during March declined 121,000 piculs, while imports of Indian cotton increased 300,000 piculs, as compared with the preceding month.

CHAMBER COMMERCE GROWING

The membership of the Newton Chamber of Commerce continues to grow steadily and there is seldom a day when several applications are not received from interested Newton citizens. Last week was an especially gratifying one from the membership viewpoint, with a total of 45 new members during the week. The total during the month of July was 126, increasing the total membership on July 31, to 1636. Present indications are that the 1923 objective of two thousand or more members before the close of the year will be reached without great difficulty.
While the membership is being developed simultaneously in nearly all of the Newtons, there has been an especially gratifying increase during the past month in a few of the villages, notably Newton with 30 new members during the month, Newton Centre with 28, and Newton Highlands with 19 each.

DEATH OF MRS. HEWS

Mrs. India C. Hews, wife of Dr. Clarence A. Hews, a dentist of Cambridge, living at 32 Richardson street, Newton, died early Monday morning following several weeks' illness. She and her husband had lived in Newton only a year, coming here from Allston where they lived for eight years, and earlier in Malden where they resided for sixteen years. While living in Malden, Mrs. Hews was widely identified with club work and was a member of the Old and New and the Karshish Club and she also held membership in the Cantabrigia Club in Cambridge.

Mrs. Hews was born in St. Michael's, Md., and her parents were Rev. C. Theodore Cochel, a Methodist minister; and Elizabeth A. (Thomas) Cochel. She was educated at the Western Maryland College, and following her graduation from the Woman's Medical College in Baltimore she practised for several years before marrying Dr. Hews in 1892. Besides her husband Mrs. Hews is survived by three brothers.

THE APRONS ON THE LINE

By J. D. MONAHAN

This just about the season That a fellow turns to rhyme; Shattering his nerves and brain, About the good old Summertime; But this rhyme is a worker, And it makes his heat time; When the aprons white and snowy Are strung upon the line. Now a trip upon the river In a small and frail canoe; With a music box and records— The boat will just hold two; That surely is a charming sail— But 'tis beaten every time, When the Aprons white and snowy Are strung upon the line. When there is just a little breeze, And the air is not too cold; Everyone is on the jump, E'en the boss forgets to scold; All our hearts are lighter When the sun consents to shine And the aprons white and snowy Are strung upon the line.

SHUBERT THEATRE—Music, color, speed, beauty, and everything else that makes for joy and fun are promised in the announcement that the "Ted Lewis Frolic" will make its first bow at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, next Saturday night—August 4th, with a cast of portents and a chorus of girls sufficient to untire any tired business man—if there happens to be one left.

Lewis and Dody are vaudevillians whose stars have been rising rapidly the last few years, their song, "Hello, Hello, Hello," being one of the most popular "nut" songs of the times, as your phonograph dealer will attest.

William K. Wells and Arthur "Bugs" Baer are responsible for the book, while Milton Ager and Jack Yellen will plead guilty to the music and lyrics. All but Mr. Baer have been identified with famous musical comedy successes, and "Bugs" Baer is nationally famous as a humorist. In the "Frolic" he devotes his talents to a revue book, for the first time.

A CRIMINAL OCCUPATION

No one can read the details which Commissioner Haynes is bringing out in his articles in the Times regarding the difficulties of enforcing prohibition without being struck by the desperate character of the class of men most frequently detected in attempts to violate the law. They can fairly be called criminal, not merely because they are setting at defiance this particular law of the land, but because so many of them stand ready to commit crimes of any nature. The list runs from smuggling and thieving to assault and assassination. The special motive they have in taking up the business of the illegal sale of liquor is, of course, mercenary. They think, and apparently think rightly, that large profits can quickly be made in this forbidden industry. But the lawless instinct which prompts them to go into it also betrays itself in the incidental acts connected with it. They go armed like burglars and are at any moment prepared to kill enforcement agents or detectives or policemen, if they think it necessary, in order to escape the clutches of the law. As a rule they are a reckless and hardened set.

To this aspect of the matter some thought ought to be given by easy-going people, passing as respectable citizens who consent to have dealings with these gentry. To do business with them is really to encourage and harbor a criminal class. Its members disregard not only the prohibition law, but the general criminal code. The money which they make by bootlegging too often enables them to commit any other crime which is to their supposed advantage. Persons who call themselves law-abiding ought to take heed how they get into even temporary business relations with such offenders. From pouring scorn upon one law it is easy to pass to contempt for all law. People who would be horrified at an agitation to despoil or break the laws safeguarding property are often found winking at violations of the prohibition law. It is a dangerous attitude. The question involved is not only of consistency, but of fostering a temper in large sections of the community which might easily be led to favor the trampling upon any law that stood in the way of the passionate desires of great masses of citizens.—Editorial "N. Y. Times."

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

By A Country Editor

The great aggregation of dailies, weeklies, monthlies, etc., which function under the generic term "Metropolitan Press," has reached its vast and influential proportions under Article I of the Ten Original Amendments to the Constitution of the United States which provides that "Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of speech or of the press."

This charter of free expression applies with equal force to every publication, rural or urban, within the confines of the United States.

The privilege (or is it the right?) thus conferred of necessity involves a high obligation, namely, the obligation to respect and uphold the letter and spirit of the instrument which gave it being and assured it freedom.

"Honor thy father and thy mother" applies with no greater force to the individual than "Honor the Constitution of the United States" applies to the American Press. One cannot be a good offspring and disregard the first; one cannot be a good editor and disregard the second.

For if the Magna Charta of Liberty is reviled, Liberty itself is outraged and corrupted.

It is not intended hereby to say, or to imply that the Constitution of the United States is in any sense, real or implied, sacrosanct. It is a human instrument. It is subject to change or amendment. Ample provision has been made for this process.

But, until legally amended or changed, the provisions of the Constitution should receive the cordial, loyal cooperation of every citizen (including editors), to the end that the will of the people as therein expressed may be carried out or enforced.

It may be set down as a fundamental principle that no nation can exist whose citizens are half loyal and half disloyal.

Good government, and especially good democracy, may not be maintained except upon the unstinted support of every citizen; the acquiescence of every elector in the expressed will of the people as determined in accordance with its law of elections or legislation.

This is a truth so trite that even its recital is a redundancy. Everybody (especially every American) knows this.

The Metropolitan and Countryside editors know, or should know, it in an emphatic sense.

If there is anything the matter with the United States today, it may be safely stated that the trouble has its origin and inspiration in the individual and collective disposition to flout at and disregard law that is displeasing to the individual or collective fancy.

"I don't like this law; therefore I will not obey it." This is of the essence of anarchy.

Some minds fondly imagine that freedom is promoted by such an attitude. Such minds are awry. True freedom can have no enduring basis which is not founded on absolute loyalty to and observance of constituted law and authority. Unless this is assured, government becomes a scrambled egg, which may have slight promise of becoming unscrambled.

The Press Signally Responsible

In such a situation an extraordinary responsibility rests with the Press of America, whether of the City or of the Country. The first duty of this Press is to "honor its parent," the Constitution of the United States, and therefore all American law which in a peculiar sense is authorized by or related to the Constitution.

Unless the Press assumes this rigidly honest attitude, it fails of its high stewardship as the tribune of the people and becomes a mere vehicle of confusion. It becomes a rump convention. It becomes a chattering, disturbing group in an assembly seeking to function under parliamentary usage. It becomes a disturber of the peace. It invites the hand of the police.

By this language it is not intended to say that the Constitution or the laws may not be changed. They may. But there is a right way and a wrong way of handling the issue.

The right way is by National and State Constitutional procedure; the wrong way is by disregarding or encouraging the disregard of enacted law and hallooing personal or collective discontent in disturbance of peaceable procedure.

The Press should in siss upon constitutional procedure; it should frown on the use of the egg-beater.

Who shall say that the Eighteenth Amendment, even under the interpretation of the Volstead Act, cannot be enforced if every citizen is loyal and unflinchingly loyal to constituted law? Is it loyalty or disloyalty that has prevented the full enforcement of prohibition?

Is the bootlegger a good citizen? Is the person who patronizes the bootlegger a good citizen? Is the person who shares with the person who patronizes the bootlegger a good citizen? How about it? What is the answer to the Press, expressing in the light of its own implied loyalty to the Constitution of the United States?

The writer of this article is not a Prohibitionist. He is one who wishes the old American saloon might have been absolutely abolished and the right of the individual citizen to drink or not to drink alcoholic beverages in sensible moderation absolutely reserved. He wishes that the bootlegger business might have been clearly foreseen and forestalled.

But he believes in enforcement of law; respect of law; obedience of law. He cannot perceive the preservation of Liberty without loyalty to law and order. Therefore he is for enforcing Prohibition absolutely.

If the process of enforcement makes individual Americans permanently dry, well and good. He will abide by it. If it creates sufficient nausea to secure in the constituted way a modification of the Volstead Act or even an amendment of the Eighteenth Amendment, well and good. He will abide by that.

But the right thing to do at this time is to enforce the Prohibition law. We will all have a better taste in our mouths if we come clean on this thing—if we play the part of real sportsmen.

The editor who will not pay his bets on the decision of the judges should never attend a "hoos-race."

To Each Man His Part.

To shape the whole future is not our problem; but only to shape faithfully a small part of it, according to rules already known. It is perhaps possible for each of us, who will with due earnestness inquire, to ascertain clearly what he, for his own part, ought to do; this let him, with true heart, do, and continue doing.—Thomas Carlyle.

WHY NOT NEWTON?

The Gloucester High School has for the second year been honored by being classified as the Honor High School of the First Corps Area, Division of R. O. T. C. Major General A. W. Brewster, U. S. A., commanding the First Corps Area, has written to Principal Wilfred H. Ringer of the High School, commending the high standard of the work in the military department at the school and announcing that the classification of "Honor High School" has again been conferred as a result of the fine showing made by the cadets during the year and more especially at the annual inspection on Field Day on June 8.

The following letter from Secretary of War John W. Weeks to Col. Edward H. Haskell, the donor of the Haskell medals, will be read with interest:

"Colonel Edward H. Haskell, 176 Federal street, Boston, Mass.

Dear Colonel Haskell:—Replying to your letter of June 22, 1923, relative to the R. O. T. C. unit in the Gloucester High School, I am pleased to learn of the excellent work of the Battalion. This unit has been named by General Brewster as the "Honor High School" of the First Corps Area.

"It is gratifying to know that the community is so interested in military training and I appreciate your efforts to stimulate this interest.

"Sincerely yours,
JOHN W. WEEKS,
"Secretary of War."

WILBUR THEATRE.—What promises to be an exceedingly novel in musical comedy will be the presentation in Boston by the Messrs. Shubert of "Sally, Irene and Mary," for the opening attraction at the Wilbur Theatre on August 6th.

Louise Brown, Kitty Flynn and Marguerite Zander were selected by the Messrs. Shubert for the three important title roles. These roles are unusual in that the young women are called on to portray respectively Mary, Edith Day and Janet Velle, who it will be recalled created the title roles in the three musical comedies, "Sally," "Irene" and "Mary."

Eddie Dowling, who plays the principal male role in "Sally, Irene and Mary," and who has written the book, saw the three plays and became very much interested in the characters of the three leading women. He thought that each in her own right should be the heroine of a romance. So he put the three into an original story. Mr. Dowling says that he has used only the three actresses as heroines and that the story of their loves and lives as unfolded in "Sally, Irene and Mary" is purely fictional.

PASS IT ALONG

The newspaper man is blamed for a whole lot of things he can't help, such as using partially in mentioning visitors, giving news about some folks and leaving others out, etc. He simply prints all the news he can find. Some people inform him about such things and of others to do. An editor should not be expected to know the names and residences of all your uncles, aunts, cousins, even if he should see them get on or off the train. Tell us about it; it's news that makes the newspaper, and every man, woman and child can be associate editor if they only will. Never apologize when you give this bit of information to an editor, for if there lives one so dead that he has lost his appreciation of such favors he is dead, indeed, to every virtue that imparts value to a paper.—Belzoni (Miss.) Banner.

ROTARY CLUB RESOLUTIONS

The Rotary Club of Newton joins with every citizen of our great country in mourning the untimely death of Warren Gamaliel Harding, President of the United States.

He was a crowning example of that philosophy of life on which Rotary is founded, "Service above Self." A service which took into account not only the well being and happiness of our own country, but passed beyond the seas and sought to bring the spirit of the Man of Nazareth into the councils of the nations of the world. A service which has caused us to rejoice exceedingly that he has lived and loved and worked among us and for which every tear shed in his memory reflects the spirit of reverence and affection which his life has created in every heart.

"Service above Self."—Warren G. Harding.

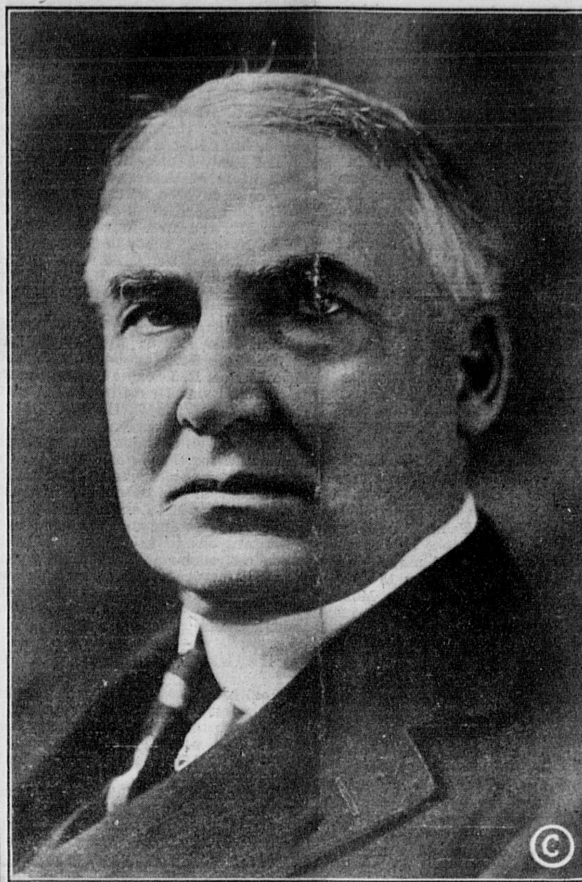

AN EDITORIAL

Newton, in common with our fellow citizens all over this great country, is mourning today the passing away of our beloved President, Warren G. Harding. In the brief years he has held the high office of chief executive of over a hundred millions of people of all kinds and conditions, he has won a place in the affections of all by his kindness, his geniality and his simple unaffectedness of character. The editor has been honored and privileged to meet the President on two brief occasions and can give personal testimony as to his magnetic personality and his genial friendliness.

While it is too early to fully realize the great results which have been accomplished by President Harding, we can be sure that history will record his administration as one of the greatest in thought, in word and deed.

The sad fact remains that the President was not allowed to see the finish of the plans he had made for the benefit of the country and for the world, but like Moses of old, was only permitted to have a glimpse of the promised land of world wide peace.

With the great outpouring of affection for the dead President, there has also been a nation wide expression of the deepest sympathy for Mrs. Harding and for her calm courage in the solemn presence of death. The entire country joins in a prayer to Almighty God to comfort and sustain her in her great affliction.

LADDIE BOY

I am looking for the master,
Who on a journey went away,
To study this great country
Of which he has full sway.

I am watching for the master,
Each auto big and grand,
And yet they do not bring him,
And I fail to understand.

I am watching for the master
And the lady of the land,
And why folks seem so mournful,
I fail to understand.

I am looking for the master,
His kind word and friendly hand,
For he is the kind of master
A dog can understand.

I am longing for the master,
Again to lick his hand,
I want to love him with my eyes,
For he will always understand.

I am listening for the master
To say, "Here, Laddie Boy!"
In a voice so full of love for me
That will make me leap for joy.

I wistfully wait my lady,
For she is lovely, too,
And understands her Laddie
As folks who love dogs do.

I am watching for the master
And the lady of the land,
And wish someone would whisper
What I fail to understand.

POLICE COURT
 In the Newton Police Court last Friday morning, before Judge Bacon, Merrill Webb of 17 Cliff Avenue, Winthrop, charged with speeding and with refusing to stop when signaled to do so by an officer in uniform, was found guilty on both charges and fined $10 for speeding and $25 for failing to stop.
 Webb was being pursued on Commonwealth Avenue, by motorcycle officer Dowling, and while traffic was stopped at the corner of Commonwealth Avenue and Washington Street, failed to stop. Traffic officer Whalen signaled to Webb to pull up, but he kept on going and was overtaken a short distance beyond by Dowling.
 In Court Tuesday morning Judge Bacon sentenced Powers to four months in the House of Correction and Callahan was given one month in the House of Correction. Both appealed.
 James F. Mullen of Natick was arrested Monday night by Patrolman J. P. Murphy and booked for being drunk, operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and without a license. In Court Tuesday morning before Judge Bacon he was given a suspended sentence of one month in the House of Correction for operating under the influence of liquor. The drunk charge was filed and he was fined $25 for operating without a license. The month's sentence was suspended until Jan. 12, because a jail sentence would work hardship on Mullen's wife and children.
 William Lardlow, of 243 Highland Avenue, Needham Heights, was arrested at the baseball game between the Upper Falls Town Team and the Cochituate Town Team for disturbance. It is alleged that he assaulted a boy at the game and made quite a disturbance. He was given 15 days in the House of Correction, on Monday morning.

80 YEARS YOUNG
 Mr. Samuel A. Langley, for many years a well-known and highly respected resident of West Newton, observed his 80th birthday last Saturday evening, when a large number of his friends gathered at the home of Mr.
 and Mrs. Francis Nowers on Watertown Street in his honor.
 The guests included members of Charles Ward Post, No. 62, G. A. R., of which Mr. Langley has been officer of the day for 35 years; members of Tent No. 2, Daughters of Veterans, city officials, members of the clergy, and friends of Mr. Langley in all walks of life. Even little Barbara Mason, 7-weeks-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
 Alfred J. Mason, neighbors of Mr.
 Langley, attended the party.
 He was the recipient of many gifts, including a purse from Charles Ward Post, a huge bouquet from the Daughters of Veterans, a large birthday cake covered with American flags, with 80 inscribed in the middle of it from Mr. and Mrs. Murdock Brison of West Newton; a bouquet of 80 carnations from Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Sprague of Lakewood, R. I., and numerous other useful remembrances of the day.
 Refreshments were served by Mrs.
 Nowers, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Lane.
 Mr. Langley was born in 1843, in Providence, R. I., came to Boston when a boy and was living in Boston at the beginning of the Civil War. He enlisted in the 13th Massachusetts Infantry, under Col. Leonard, a Newton man, and for three years was in practically every engagement from Second Bull Run to Petersburg. Returning from the war Mr. Langley followed the sea for a time and then engaged in the plumbing trade in Newton. He has been retired now for about five years.
 Mr. Langley carries his years well and is surprisingly active. In appearance none but those who know him would consider him to be more than 60.

WELL-FILLED BANK BOOKS

When you see a growing savings account with a substantial balance, you may be sure it is not the result of so-called "luck."

A well-filled bank book results from careful spending and a certain amount of self denial.

Right now is none too soon to start your savings account. We will help to make it grow, safely and surely, by adding compound interest in March and September, each year.

BURGLAR SCARE

Auburndale had a burglar scare early last Friday as a result of which several policemen in automobiles conducted a hunt that ended in the arrest of two Roxbury youths who are charged with attempted breaking and entering. They are Leo Powers, nineteen years old, who gave 1500 Tremont street as his address, and seventeen year-old Francis Callahan, who lives on Delle avenue.

Between 3 and 3.30 o'clock the police received word that three garages had been entered. This was the garage of Ray A. Tyler at 729 Walnut street, where a tire pump and a set of side curtains were taken. From the garage of Webster Jones of 195 Woodland road a Stutz touring car was taken, only to be abandoned nearby, and from the garage of Winthrop A. Stiles at 11 Elm Burn road a Ford sedan was removed. This also was left on the street close to the building in which it has been housed.

While the police were searching they learned that men were attempting to force their way into a food shop near Auburndale square and it was near that building that the pair were taken. One is said to have told the police that their automobile had been broken down and they were attempting to make repairs while the other's story was to the effect that they were making their way to Boston from a camp at Cochituate.

A SERIOUS MATTER

Charged with operating while under the influence of liquor an auto filled with seven small children and four adults, Louis Pascucci, forty-three, of 235 Washington street, Gloucester, was sentenced to one month in the house of Correction by Judge William F. Bacon in Newton District Court
Monday morning.

In view of the presence in the car of the seven children, the court considered the charge against Pascucci an unusually serious one.

Pasquale Pascucci, twenty-nine, of 3 Thomas street, Medford, brother of the driver, also was arrested, charged with

The children in the car, it is said were those of the two brothers. The mothers also were present.

The two men were arrested by Patrolman Hoyt and Special Officer Miller after a short chase on Beacon street, Newton, yesterday. The auto, according to the officers, was proceeding in a dangerous fashion and they feared an accident would have occured.

BAND CONCERTS

There will be band concerts the coming week as follows:

Sunday at 3.30, Riverside Recreation Grounds by Cambridge's Band.

Wednesday, August 15, at 7.30 at Clarke's band.

Thursday, August 16, (evening)

The Buildings Department reports 137 permits to build issued during July on work estimated to cost $762,- 745, including 23 single dwellings, 13

$68 permits valued at over $4,600,000

NEW FIRE TRUCK

A new fire truck has been added to the fire apparatus of the city and has been placed in the Newtonville truck house, the present ladder going to the Newton station for repairs.

It was made by the Maxim Motor Company of Middleboro and is known as a city service ladder. The motor has six cylinders and is 120 horse power, with triple ignition, a 40 gallon chemical tank, while 200 feet of chemical hose is also supplied. A 17 gallon tank is used for gasoline needed. It has an electric siren, self starting motor, folding ladder, tips to protect the axes, chemicals to make chemical water, and a tail light. There are 300 feet of ladders and also four axes, four lanterns, two shovels, two be added later.

It cost $8500.

QUICK WORK

A small fiver racer was stolen Friday night from Chapel street, Newton, about 9.30, and within an hour was back in the hands of the owner, Wallace J. Sampson of 256 Watertown

Foristall spotted the racer in Newton Center square and brought it to a stop.
No arrest was made but a complaint for unlawful appropriation may result.
The car was taken by way of a joke by friends of Sampson.

The Law of the Land, Must and Shall Be Respected

We are glad to note an increasing disposition on the part of our district court judges to give jail sentences to persons convicted of operating automobiles while under the influence of liquor. In this connection Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank E. Goodwin urges an aroused public opinion to insist on drastic action to make our highways safe for all decent, law-abiding citizens. We require locomotive engineers who operate on fixed rails within a guarded right of way, to be strictly sober and then allow any crazy-headed fool to drive a death dealing automobile through our crowded streets and think a mere money payment to the court sufficient punishment for so doing.

Notwithstanding the absence of many of our clergymen and prominent citizens on account of the middle of the summer season, there is evidence that residents of all parts of the city will have an opportunity to participate in the memorial services for our dead President. There has been a keen interest manifested in the city in expressing in some adequate fashion the intense feeling of affection, esteem and sympathy which the death of Mr. Harding has aroused.

Friends of Mr. Frank W. Stearns, the "president maker," are arrested to see how his "faith in Coolidge" has been justified.

We almost wish there would be a coal strike just to see how efficiently and effectively President Coolidge would handle it.

Let us all have "faith in President Coolidge."

THE TAX RATE

It is hinted at City Hall that the tax rate which will be announced in the near future will be about $27 per $1000 possibly a trifle less than that figure.

AT REST

O, filled is the land with mourning.
Such sorrow all hearts feel to-day;
Death came with a hand most untimely,
And beckoned our leader away.

Faithful and true to the journey's end,
Though the task he left undone,
He entered the realm of a perfect day,
When his crown of life was won.

Sublime mid the trials of office,
With calmness he ruled, and well:
"The world needs more of the Christ,"
He said,
"The havoc of war to quell."

A martyr to duty's devotion,
To our country he gave of his best;
Now grief fills the soul of the nation,
While her hero lies at rest.

At rest is the heart that loved all men—
The humble and poor and the great;
In spirit the world offers homage,
Where our President lies in state.

To his loved ones bereft of his presence,
Comes a solace that never shall cease,
While out from the storm at the journey's end,
The Christ is whispering, "Peace!"

DEATH OF MR. ESTABROOK

On August 1st, after a week's illness, Mr. Theodore A. Estabrook, for many years a resident of West Newton, died at Allerton, Mass., where of late he had spent his summers.

Mr. Estabrook was born April 14, 1845, at Arlington, Mass. He and his brother, Arthur F., were the only children of James A. and Lydia Adams Estabrook and grandsons of William Adams, Captain of the West Cambridge Minute Men, and whose family used to occupy the old Adams Mansion on Massachusetts avenue, Arlington.

In 1860 Mr. Estabrook started business in the Faneuil Hall Bank where he remained in active service until 1917 when he retired on account of ill health.

In 1872 he was married to Miss Elizabeth B. Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Clark of West Newton. Mr. and Mrs. Estabrook, also, soon made their home in West Newton where they lived for over forty years. For the last few years they have made their residence in Newtonville.

Mr. Estabrook is survived by his wife, his sons, Clarence Ware and George Clark, and his daughter, Louise.

The funeral service was held on Saturday, August 4th, in the Bigelow Chapel, Newton Cemetery. The service was conducted by Rev. Harold Greene Arnold of West Roxbury. The music, which was notably fine, was arranged by Mr. Thomas H. Hall of the Apollo Club, a close friend of Mr. Estabrook.

Without official connection with Newton, Mr. Estabrook has always taken the keenest interest in public affairs, civic and national. He was an ardent member of the First Unitarian Church. He possessed the rare quality of neighborliness, a trait so difficult to fit into the scheme of present-day living. He was indefatigably cordial and genial, alert with a full fund of humor and had the gift of an active and acute sense of Right.

READJUSTMENT IN INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS

As the result of a study of over 1000 plans for improved relations between employers and employees, a Special Committee of the National Economic League on "Readjustment in Industrial Relations" recommends that employees should be given participation in management under certain limitations, and that they should be given the opportunity to acquire some financial interest in the establishment in which they work. The Committee concludes that the term "industrial democracy" is misleading and should be abandoned; that employees, as a whole, are not interested in assuming the responsibilities of management; and that, while they should be given the opportunity to have a voice in management on matters affecting their immediate welfare, it would be inadvisable to have them participate in management on questions of policy, such as selling, purchasing, finance, and similar matters. An important point made by the report is that employees and executives should be given more instruction in the economics of business, as a step to better industrial relations.

A vote was taken three years ago by the National Council of the League on the question.

"Should there be active participation by employees or representatives of employees in all problems of management affecting the worker?"

The answer was an affirmative one by 78 per cent of the 500 members who voted. The present form aimed to learn what was done in this direction up to the present time, and the Committee has made an intensive study of the experience with this question throughout the country.

The Committee finds that the movement for representation of employees in the discussion and adjustment of working conditions is spreading rapidly, and that, in the majority of cases where such plans have been tried, they have been successful in establishing better relations. With few exceptions the plans in operation give employees advisory powers only, and that, says the Committee, seems to be the most practicable method of representation at present.

ENFORCE THE LAW

President Warren G. Harding June 25, 1923, said:

"Whatever objection there is to the so-called invasion of personal liberty does not hold when the supremacy of law and the stability of our institutions are menaced.

"I do not see how any citizen who cherishes the protection of law in organized society may feel secure when he himself is the example of contempt for law.

"Lawless drinking is a menace to the Republic itself.

"There must be no issue in this land prominent to that of enforcement of the law."

WALNUT STREET PAVING

The so-called Walnut street paving problem is apparently no nearer solution as a result of the Chamber of Commerce conference on July 27, at which time President Pitt F. Drew and General Manager Harry H. Hanson of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company discussed the situation with the Directors of the Newton Chamber and various city officials, including Mayor Edwin O. Childs, City Solicitor Joseph W. Bartlett, Street Commissioner George E. Stuart, City Engineer Edwin H. Rogers, and Alderman Roy V. Collins.

The conference resulted in a proposal that the street railway company should pay toward the installation of a new concrete surface between and adjoining its tracks on Walnut street, from Newtonville Square to Commonwealth avenue, an amount equal to what it would cost to relay the present block paving, or one dollar per square yard. The remainder, amounting to $2.25 per yard, was to have been paid by the city providing the plan should meet with the approval of the Board of Aldermen. The street railway company has been ready for some time to install new rails, whenever a new type of surface was assured, the new rails available being of a type that cannot be installed with the block paving now in use.

At the conclusion of the Chamber conference it was hoped that the troublesome question had been worked out to the satisfaction of all, although the street railway officials would only agree at that time to consider the proposal submitted and to acquaint Mayor Childs with their decision during the following week. This was done through a letter addressed to the Mayor, in which President Drew states that it is impossible for the street railway company to accept the plan, pointing out the reasons why the company feels itself obliged to operate over the present track equipment rather than to assume any expense other than that which it has already agreed to assume through installing new rails.

President Drew's letter proved a keen disappointment to many of those present at the Chamber conference who felt that the proposal for dividing the expense was one that would probably meet with the approval of the Board of Aldermen and that acceptance by the street railway company would solve a troublesome problem of long standing. There are some, however, who feel that the street railway company cannot reasonably be expected to provide a new roadbed for its chief competitor, the automobile, although this is but one of the incidental benefits to be derived from the proposed changes. The chief objection to the present situation is the noise resulting from operating cars over the present tracks, which may be adequate and satisfactory from the street railway viewpoint but is said to result whenever a car traverses Walnut street in a racket which disturbs the peace of mind by day, and the slumbers by night, of nearly everyone living in that section of Newtonville.

While President Drew's letter is not a definite refusal of the expense sharing plan, it holds out but scant hope of any future reversal of attitude. It is even intimated that his company may be obliged to content itself with merely patching up the present equipment, from time to time, and that this condition may continue for a number of years. The board of Aldermen made an appropriation last year of $7500, in connection with which it was planned that the city should pay all of the resurfacing expense. It is reported that the Board is not now willing that the city should stand all of the expense, which prompted the Chamber Directors to arrange the July 27 conference. This was in the hope that some plan could be agreed upon that would insure some of the work being done this year through dividing the expense. What future action may now be necessary to bring about the desired improvements is best indicated by the letter of President Drew to Mayor Childs, which is as follows:

Hon. Edwin O. Childs, Mayor of Newton, City Hall, West Newton, Mass.
Dear Sir:—At the recent conference in connection with rebuilding track on Walnut street I agreed to communicate with you not later than today.

I am therefore, stating to you the situation as I view it. I have not, however, had a chance to take it up with our directors but will do so at an early date and in case there is any change will communicate with you.

1. The track on Walnut street is safe and suitable for street car operation and with a small amount of patching from time to time can be used for a number of years.

We have taken the precaution to ask an Inspector from the Department of Public Utilities to examine this track and he agrees with the statement above made and further says that there are many parts of our track where from a street railway standpoint we should use any available money for the purpose of making it more suitable for street railway needs, rather than to rebuild Walnut street at this time.

2. The citizens of Newton and especially the abutting owners on Walnut street, desire that this piece of track should be rebuilt to eliminate the noise and to make it more suitable for automobile travel.

3. The financial condition of the Middlesex & Boston street railway company makes it imperative that any available funds should be used with a view to keeping our track safe and making it suitable for street railway purposes.

4. The estimated cost to the street railway company for rebuilding the track on Walnut street, exclusive of pavement, is approximately $11,000.

We have checked up this estimate by submitting it to a contractor whose price is considerably in excess of this amount.

Conclusion—in view of the above facts, we feel that we are perhaps going further than we should, from a strictly business standpoint, when we say that we are willing to rebuild our track and place it in condition to receive such pavement as the city might desire to put in. We do not feel justified in paying for any part of the cost of the pavement.

If any part of this work is to be done this year, we are very anxious that we should know about it as soon as possible. It has been most difficult this season to get labor and we have many places which need the immediate attention of such force as we now have.

In fact, we should must prefer not to do this work even on the basis suggested but will make every effort to cooperate in case it is decided that it is for the best interest of the public good.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) PITT F. DREW,
President.

FAREWELL TO FR. CRONIN

Saturday evening, a number of ladies of St. Bernard's parish gathered at the Newton Catholic Club to bid farewell to Rev. Francis Cronin, who has been appointed removal pastor of the Orient Heights section of East Boston. Incidentally, a surprise in the form of a linen shower was given to Fr. Cronin by the ladies and a most enjoyable evening was passed. Rev. William J. Dwyer, pastor of St. Bernard's, made a short address, praising Fr. Cronin's excellent work in the parish and thanked him for the great assistance he has rendered the parish. Rev. T. P. McMahon of Auburndale, touched on Fr. Cronin's sterling qualities, telling of a friendship formed over twenty years ago, when both were curates at Winchester. Rev. John Allston told of his life with Fr. Cronin, stating that he had looked upon Fr. Cronin as his guide and his ideal of priest, Joseph Curran of Margin street, without whom no party is complete, acted as toastmaster during the evening and contributed greatly to the evening's fun. The committee in charge served a very dainty collation.

Fr. Cronin was presented with table linen, bed linen, blankets, dish towels and many other pieces of household dry goods. Attached to the gifts were the sentiments of the gathering.

There are near friends and dear friends and friends for just a day.

There are new friends and true friends and friends across the way. There are warm friends and cold friends and bashful friends and old friends.

But best of all are old friends whose friendship comes to stay.

SEAVER-BUFFUM

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Coe Buffum, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Mansfield Buffum of Waban, Mass., and Mr. Charles Hunneman Seaver, the son of Mr. Daniel Badger Seaver and the late Mrs. Seaver of New York, took place recently in Christ Church, Bay Ridge, and was performed by the Rev. Bishop Faulkner, who had also presided at the marriage ceremony of Mr. and Mrs. Seaver, Sr.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Arthur Bailey Clark as matron of honor, and Mr. Arthur Bailey Clark attended Mr. Seaver as best man. Mrs. Seaver is a graduate of the Normal Art School of Boston, while Mr. Seaver is a member of the 1921 class at Hamilton College and of the Psi Epsilon Club of New York.

DEATH OF MRS. LIVINGSTON

Mrs. Deborah Knox Livingston of Newton Highlands, national director of Citizenship, Women's Christian Temperance Union, died at her summer home at Osterville, Sunday. She was widely known as a lecturer before women's clubs, and for years was a force in the movement to bring about countrywide prohibition. She was a member of the executive committee of the World Temperance Alliance.

Mrs. Livingston suffered a nervous collapse last spring and was brought to her summer home, where she grew steadily weaker. She was born in Scotland, forty-eight years ago and came with her parents to this country when about ten years old. She went to school in Pawtucket, R. I., and also in New York and later for a short time taught school in southern Rhode Island. At this period she was introduced to what was to prove her life work by Frances Willard, then national president of the W. C. T. U.

In her early temperance work, Mrs. Livingston was secretary of the old Boston W. C. T. U. and later was president of the Rhode Island W. C. T. U. Her executive ability won her a high place in the councils of the national organization and she undertook many lecture campaigns, the most recent being a trip to South Africa which lasted six months. Mrs. Livingston is survived by her husband, Rev. B. F. Livingston, general secretary of the Evangelistic Association of New England, and a son, David Knox Livingston, a student at Newton High School.

The funeral services held at Osterville on Tuesday were attended by a large number of temperance leaders from all parts of the country. They were conducted by Rev. Dr. Charles N. Arbutuckle, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Newton Centre, assisted by Rev. William F. Geisler of Osterville. There were many floral tributes.

Y. M. C. A. BASEBALL NOTES

The Newton Y. M. C. A. baseball team has been playing a fast game of ball all season and at present is going faster than ever. The team as a whole is hitting the ball hard and often, and the fielding has been clean and sure.
Some of the best teams in Greater Boston have been played and to date the locals have dropped but five games. Recently a tie game with the Newton town team was played and a great deal of interest is centered on the play-off game which is to be played on Victory field in a week or two.
Last Saturday the Y team defeated the Waltham A. A. in a ten inning game 4 to 3. A return game will be played later.
The team stands ready to play any of the local teams a game or series of games at any date suitable to all concerned, especially Saxony, Newton Legion and Newton Town team.

Mexico's Longest River.
The Santiago river in Mexico is the longest in that country. It rises near Mexico City and flows northwest to the sea, emptying near San Blas. In the canyons 2,000 feet below the level of the surrounding plain, the Indian farmers find a super-tropic climate along the river banks where they plant their crops. The climate here forces vegetation as might an equatorial hot-house.

AN UNUSUAL TRIBUTE

A tribute, which doubtless took place nowhere else in the United States, was paid President Harding on Saturday evening by the canoeists on the Charles river at Riverside. A minstrel show was being held on the float at Fox Island a short distance down the river from Riverside. Nearly 500 canoeists were grouped about the island and hundreds of people were watching the performance from the shore.
One of the black-up members of the troupe, which was composed of members of the Omicron Delta Canoe Association, Inc., stepped to the foot-lights on the float in the midst of the gaiety and, referring to the death of the President, asked for a minute of silence in honor of the President's memory and the usual salute of the canoeists.
No sound for one minute could be heard but the rippling of the waters while a thousand paddles were raised, blades up, in mute tribute to the memory of President Harding.

The assessors announced the tax rate for 1923 last week as $26.60 per $1000 valuation, an increase of $1.20 over that of 1922. The increase is largely due to the increase in the city budget, from $2,859,641. in 1922 to $3,138,661. in 1923, nearly $280,000, and which could not be offset by the splendid increase in valuations of over six million dollars.

The deductions, indicate a large falling off in receipts but the total are about the same as last year, $919,559 in 1922 and $915,577 in 1923.

DEATH OF MR. PULSIFER

George Royal Pulsifer, a widely-known Harvard man, and as a Boston lawyer a recognized authority on conveyancing, died suddenly Tuesday morning, at East Harpswell, Maine, where he and Mrs. Pulsifer had been for a few days and where he had a summer home.

Mr. Pulsifer was in his fifty-sixth year, was born in West Newton, and his father was the late Royal M. Pulsifer, a former Mayor of Newton, and who a number of years ago was the principal owner of the Boston Herald. His mother was Clara Stacy (Keyes) Pulsifer, and his ancestors settled in Massachusetts in the seventeenth century. Mr. Pulsifer studied at Harvard, from which he received his A. B. in 1888, and his LL. B. in 1893, as a lawyer he had practiced in Boston, since 1893, his offices being in Barristers Hall, Pemberton square. He made a specialty of conveyances and for several years was manager of the Massachusetts Title Insurance Company.

For a number of years Mr. Pulsifer lived in Newtonville, but a few years ago he moved to Ware Hall, Cambridge. He was especially interested in theatrical matters and while residing in Newtonville he was one of the leading spirits in the activities of the Players' Club, and he also was a member of the Brookline Amateurs. During the World War he gave generously of his time, and he was the Government appeal agent for Newton, a member of the Legal Advisory

A REMARKABLE TRIBUTE

Paid to President Harding at Impressive Memorial Services All Over the City

Last Friday has been termed a "history making day" and surely there has been nothing like it in the life of the American Republic.

Requested to make the day one of reverence and prayer for the late beloved president, Warren G. Harding, the whole country responded in a manner which amazed everyone. Newton did its full share in making the day a holy day both in thought and deed. Nearly every store was closed, even the Greek fruit dealers, joining the general movement. Few automobiles were noted on the streets and there was no one on the golf links or tennis courts.

The churches, where memorial services were held, were well filled and everyone seemed deeply impressed with the solemnity of the occasion.

The city government met on call of the Mayor and adopted appropriate resolutions.

Mayor Childs' message was as follows: Gentlemen:

A mighty man has fallen: A leader of the people. The death of President Harding is a loss to all Americans. I have already expressed to his bereaved wife the sympathy of our people.

Early in the week I sensed what has proved to be the fact,—that a responsive democracy, such as is the citizenship of Newton would, without further urging, take to heart the proclamations of President Coolidge and Governor Cox.

Today, a holy day in the nation, is being appropriately observed in this City. All municipal departments are closed. Playground activities have ceased. Business has been suspended. Peace and quiet reign. In the churches of every village people are gathering in memorial services. Fraternal organizations are paying a tribute of love and respect to one of their own.

The bells will toll at five o'clock. The minds of our people are centered on our late President whose body will be laid to rest in Marion, Ohio, this afternoon.

I have called your Honorable Board together in special meeting upon this Memorial Day to take such action as may seem most appropriate to you.

Very truly yours,
EDWIN O. CHILDS,
MAYOR.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Aldermen

WHEREAS, In the death of our President, WARREN G. HARDING, the nation has sustained an irreparable loss, and WHEREAS, this day has been set apart for public worship and memorial services, It is hereby

RESOLVED by the Board of Aldermen, in the name of City of Newton, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and in behalf of its citizens, at a meeting held this day as a tribute to the memory of our late President, that we do hereby express our appreciation of his high character, his public services and the sterling qualities which have endeared him to us all. We lament his removal in the midst of the great reconstruction work which he was undertaking. Be it further

RESOLVED, that to the widow and immediate family of the deceased President we hereby extend the sincere sympathy of the city in the loss which they are called upon to bear.

The memorial program announced in last week's Graphic was closely followed.

The service in the Second Church of West Newton in the morning was in charge of Rev. Dr. J. Edgar Park, the pastor, and consisted of an organ and violin duet by Mr. Wm. Lester Bates, the organist and Mr. M. F. Vincent, violinist. Mrs. George Abbott sang "O Rest in the Lord" and the congregation sang President Harding's favorite hymns, "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Lead, Kindly Light." During the prayer there was a moment for individual silent prayers of sympathy for Mrs. Harding.

Dr. Park spoke as follows:
Far more grateful for the spirit of Mr. Harding than any love could be is the fact of a meeting like this held here, held all over the United States today in which his fellow-citizens called from the engagements of life in order to testify their friendliness and admiration for him.

Called to be President of the United States—one of the most difficult tasks that could possibly be imagined—he carried the immense burden that we, the people of the United States, thrust upon the shoulders of our Chief Executive.

For the second time within a period of a few months, we have seen the physique of the President of the United States under a strain, and we all testify to our friendliness toward him, our brother, called to the highest position in our nation. We think of him not so much as a man lifted high above us all but we think of his simplicity and loveableness—the supreme qualities we wish we could say, "common" qualities of the true American.

As one said of him a few months ago who knew him well, "If he could only personally meet every man in the United States, the whole country would be for him." Such a winning, such a human and gentle personality was his; he had the ability of calling his wise advisors and following with humility their advice.

We think of him today not as an official, but as a Man and as such in this simple testimony of our regard, we let his spirit know how much we think of him. His end was such that most of us would like to have—sudden in the midst of his work that he loved.

The sympathy of every citizen of the United States today and their thoughts are for Mrs. Harding in that long journey which she has just made across this Continent, and we send to her our affection, sympathy and love in the great darkness that has come into her soul and pray that she may find great pride in the memory of her husband's life.

President Harding is laid at rest today—not in some great mausoleum, where there lies the pomp and pageantry and power but he is laid at rest in that little Western town, undisturbed in his own quiet graveyard among his own folks.

We partake now in that service in Marion, Ohio, with the simplicity of a democratic Nation and with the people whom he knew and who knew him all his life and with his business associates in his home town—we remember him and we take our lesson from him that the best thing any American can do—whatever position in life he may be called to—is to live as did President Harding—simple—unselfish, industrious and honestly.

Grant unto him eternal rest and may perpetual light shine upon him.

As the services ended, the chimes on the Unitarian Church, played "Nearer My God to Thee."

The Christian Science Church held a service in Players' Hall, West Newton, in charge of the First Reader, Mr. Edwin C. Johnson.

There was also a service in the morning at Grace Church with prayer and hymns and a brief eulogy by Rev. Frederick Grant, the acting rector.

All of the Catholic churches held services in the afternoon, that at the Church of Our Lady in charge of Rev. L. W. Slattery; that at St. John the Evangelist, in charge of Rev. J. E. Robichaud; that at St. Bernard's Church in charge of Rev. William J. Dwyer; that at the Church of Corpus Christi, in charge of Rev. T. F. McManmon; that at the Church of Mary Immaculate of Lourdes in charge of Rev. T. J. Danahy and that at the Church of the Sacred Heart, in charge of Rev. T. A. Curtin.

Union services were held in Channing Church, Newton, in the afternoon in charge of the minister, Rev. Chester A. Drummond. In addition to the Scriptures, Mr. Drummond also read "The Happy Warrior" and the poem "Thy Will Be Done." Rev. Dr. George S. Butters offered prayer and Hon. Samuel L. Powers made the address.

Dr. Butters prayed as follows:

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, we thank you for this beautiful day, the sunshine and the earth and our friends make us glad that we are in thy presence, Oh God. Give us strength, courage, faith and love for all the tasks that are before us in life.

We are assembled in this Church, our Father, and with us in many places all over the world, other people have gathered together to look unto thee.

Thou hast taken from the highest place in our nation one we have loved. He holds a vacant place in our hearts and we are here to do him honor this afternoon. We thank you for him—for his tender kindness and great love—we thank you for the love that he had for his fellow-men and we thank thee Father for what we have read and heard in these recent days.

—We thank thee for the press of our country. God bless our journalists everywhere. God bless the messages that go forth from the print—the gospel given unto men which helps them to understand the ways of the Lord. We pray this afternoon in this sorrow that has come to us all,—it is a shadow that crosses the threshold in each home and we look up into the face of our Father who loves us and cares for us and tenderly leads us on and makes us better citizens and more generous—kinder friends and more enthusiastic in the work that God gives us to do. We pray that you will especially bless that lovely woman of faith and education and a beautiful wife—God bless Mrs. Harding.

Our hearts go out in tender sympathy for her. May the grace of God be given unto her—the bravest woman of our land to bear this grief. Help us to be strong so that we may pray for citizenship everywhere and for the great men and women who are doing God's will.

God bless our country—God bless him who is our President, and we pray that his administration may be blessed by Almighty God. God bless our Government, our City, our Mayor and Aldermen and all men who hold positions of responsibility and trust. God bless our Churches, our schools, our homes and those who are here today, our Father. We give ourselves to thee to be better, stronger, truer and richer men to serve thee in every possible way in the name of Jesus Christ and make this service this afternoon a wonderful blessing for us all so that we may go on—we know not how long—but this does not trouble us—so that we may be like our Master, Jesus Christ.

Mr. Powers said in part:

We meet today in common with the American People to give expression to the public sorrow for the death of our late chief Magistrate. It is a day full of significance. A hundred million people representing the most dominating nation on the face of the globe made up of all classes and races and faith and have laid aside the ordinary activities of life to give expression to their sorrow for the death of an individual who held the highest public station in the Republic.

It is significant because it shows that the American people believe in a lofty character and high ideals in public stations. It is more than that. It indicates that deep down in the hearts of our people is an intense love of country and that love comes to the surface in case of any great affliction or great crisis.

With the death of President Harding there came a wave of sorrow over the country, because it was the belief of the average American that he represented what his nation considered as the highest ideals in American public life—and truly he did represent high ideals. He was a man of lofty character—led an irreproachable life—a man of kind and sympathetic heart who saw in every human being some good and who had that companionship which drew men unto him and won their affection.

When Mr. Harding entered the United States Senate eight years ago he was practically an unknown man so far as national reputation was concerned. He had held only two political offices in his own State. He had been a member of the Ohio Senate and he had been Lieut. Governor of Ohio. He came to the Senate almost an unknown man. He was not a political leader but a good debater as by force of his character and by force of that charm of manner which he possessed he won the affection of the United States Senate and in two years he was regarded as one of the most popular members of that body.

I remember four years ago in Washington while sitting in the waiting room, having cause to interview a Senator I talked with Mrs. Maude Park who had been the representative of the National Suffrage Movement and who had been for some two years about the Capital seeking favorable action for Suffrage. I said to her, "I suppose you have talked to a good many senators since you have been around." She replied, "I have interviewed every Senator in the United States not once but many times, and in some cases fifteen or twenty times."

I said to her, "You ought to be a good Judge of the Senators who represent the various States of the Union. Will you tell me who your ideal Senator is?" "I certainly will—in fact I am waiting to see him now; he is Senator Harding of Ohio." "Why do you call him your ideal?" "Well, I will tell you," she said. "He is the most sincere man I ever met. He is absolutely incapable of doing an unfair thing. He never made a promise to me that he did not truthfully keep. More than that—he has about him that charm of manner which at once gives you confidence that he is a man of very lofty character" and I think that is true of everyone who came into the presence of Mr. Harding. He was a man of sympathetic nature—a man who did not dare to do otherwise than right. He did not reach conclusions rapidly, but when once reached he was very steadfast and consistent in his opinion.

I remember a short time ago he gave an expression of his views upon the enforcement of the Prohibition Amendment. He did not reach it at once, but he did say that it was a wise law after reaching a conclusion and that it ought to be enforced for the welfare of the Nation and the welfare of the American people. More than that he said that he reached the conclusion that it was not national but a world-wide movement started in America—sooner or later to be followed by all the nations of Europe. He gave unstintingly of his time to the question of the League of Nations and yet as he studied that question he reached this conclusion—that a great nation like the United States, controlling the destiny of the Western Hemisphere was committed morally to do whatever in its power to prevent War between Nations in the future and to help in the settlement of international disputes and I assume that he took this last trip which in the end caused his death for the principal purpose of which was to urge upon American people the support of that proposition for the prevention of War. He was a man of rare judgment—similar to our late President Cleveland—he could not reach conclusions by intuition, he must work them out and then he was steadfast in his purpose.

Had he lived to serve his term, you would see a stronger character—he would have grown in power and strength and would have accomplished great reforms which he had in mind, but he yielded to over-work as other Presidents have done—he fell by the way-side—his work not complete. He had with him traits of character similar to those of President McKinley—he had a kind and sympathetic heart—loved nature and children—although never blessed with any—birds flowers and all things that go to make up an ideal character among the American people.

He came from the State of Ohio and with the close of today—seven Presidents sleep beneath her soil. It has become the Mother of Presidents. Upon examination—you will find that nearly everyone of our Presidents sprung from that stock that went out from the East—men that represent

THE 1924 STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX SEDAN $1550

The Closed Car You Buy Now You'll Use Next Winter

Any owner who has felt winter's winds whistling through the ill-fitting doors and flimsy panels of a makeshift closed car knows there is no substitute for quality.

The 1924 Model Studebaker Light-Six Sedan you buy now will not only serve you admirably this summer and next winter, but will endure for years.

It is sturdily built for long, hard service, to ride comfortably, to look well and to operate at a moderate expense.

And when you are ready to trade it in on a new car the depreciation will be reasonable. Studebaker used car values are high because of Studebaker's inherent merit. And there is always a market for used Studebakers.

The substantial hard wood and steel body with its broad windows and four wide doors, its rich mohair velvet plush upholstery, and many refinements, is a model of Studebaker craftsmanship.

Construction of the chassis is an achievement in the use of precision methods in large scale manufacture. Proof of this lies in the machining of all surfaces of the crankshaft and connecting rods, to which is largely due its virtual freedom from vibration. This is the exclusive Studebaker practice on cars at this price.

The smooth-running Light-Six motor has made friends everywhere for its durability, power and flexibility just as it has for its economy and reliability.

The Light-Six Sedan is low priced because it is built complete by Studebaker in large volume, but there isn't a cheap thing about it. It is above par in every particular.

Studebaker's reputation for producing high class transportation for 71 years is worth considering when you buy a car

Four wide-opening doors. Eight-day clock. Quick-action cowl ventilator. Attractive coach lamps. Heater. Mohair velvet plush upholstery. Glare-proof visor and windshield cleaner. Dome light. Thief-proof transmission lock.

what you and I represent—President In the years to come we will see Harding represented that class of the same trend of affairs. I believe, men—and so did McKinley and so did his successor, Mr. Coolidge, represent many others—and we here in America represent the very principles of those set have high regard—for what we call forth by Mr. Harding and so we to a great personality. I suppose there day meet here to pay our tribute to a are no people upon the face of the great life that has just closed—a life earth that have such a desire and that represented what we of America faith to do homage to the men who believe to be the highest ideals of have served the people as do the American citizens and do honor to Americans.

After more than a century men are believed to be the best that America making their pilgrimages down to Mt. May give. May we always have char-Vernon to the grave of Washington—acters of that kind at the Head of they are making them down to Marsh this Nation and they will always be field to the tomb of Webster and it is worshipped, loved and supported by because the American people believe the American people.

In these high personalities who have served their Country faithfully. We have had twenty-nine presidents in At the Auditorium at Upper Falls, a these United States and no person has service was held in the afternoon been elected to that office who was with a remarkably large audience not worthy to be in that high office—considering the short notice which they have differed in ability but they was given of the event. The hall was decorated with flowers and plants and Miss Ethel W. Sabine, who planned the affair, presided in the unavoidable absence of Alderman Thomas W. White. There was reading of the Scriptures by Rev. John Maxwell of the Baptist Church, a short but impressive address by Mayor Childs and prayer by Rev. Frederick Palladino of the Methodist Church. Mrs. M. E. Seaver was the pianist.

An impressive feature of the service was the presence of two members of the Newton Legion, Sergeant William Tolan and John Foran, one in soldier's uniform, the other in naval uniform, who stood at the door as the audience entered and later escorted the speakers to the platform.

At the Central Church, Newtonville, there was a union service in the afternoon under the direction of the Newtonville Church Council, and it was in charge of the president, Mr. R. B. Capron. Rev. E. E. Davidson offered the invocation, Rev.

John Daboll read the Scriptures and Rev. Dr. William E. Strong offered the prayer. Mrs. Hall sang "O Rest in the Lord" and "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Lead Kindly Light" were sung by the congregation.

Evening services were held at the North Congregational Church, Nonantum, with remarks by the pastor, Rev. Robert L. Rae and an address by Mayor Childs.

At the Auburndale Congregational Church there was a union service, under the direction of Rev. Dr. Edward Payson Drew, who read the proclamations of President Coolidge and Governor Cox and made the Memorial address.

Rev. Frederick Palladino presided at services held at the Upper Falls Methodist church and Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Withrow was in charge of union services held at the Congregational Church in Newton Highlands.

At the union services held at the First Church in Newton Centre, Rev. Edward M. Noyes presided and there was music under the direction of Mrs. Charles H. Bennett. Addresses were made by Rev. George L. Parker of the Unitarian Church, Hon. George S. Smith and Prof. John M. English. Rev. George L. Parker said:

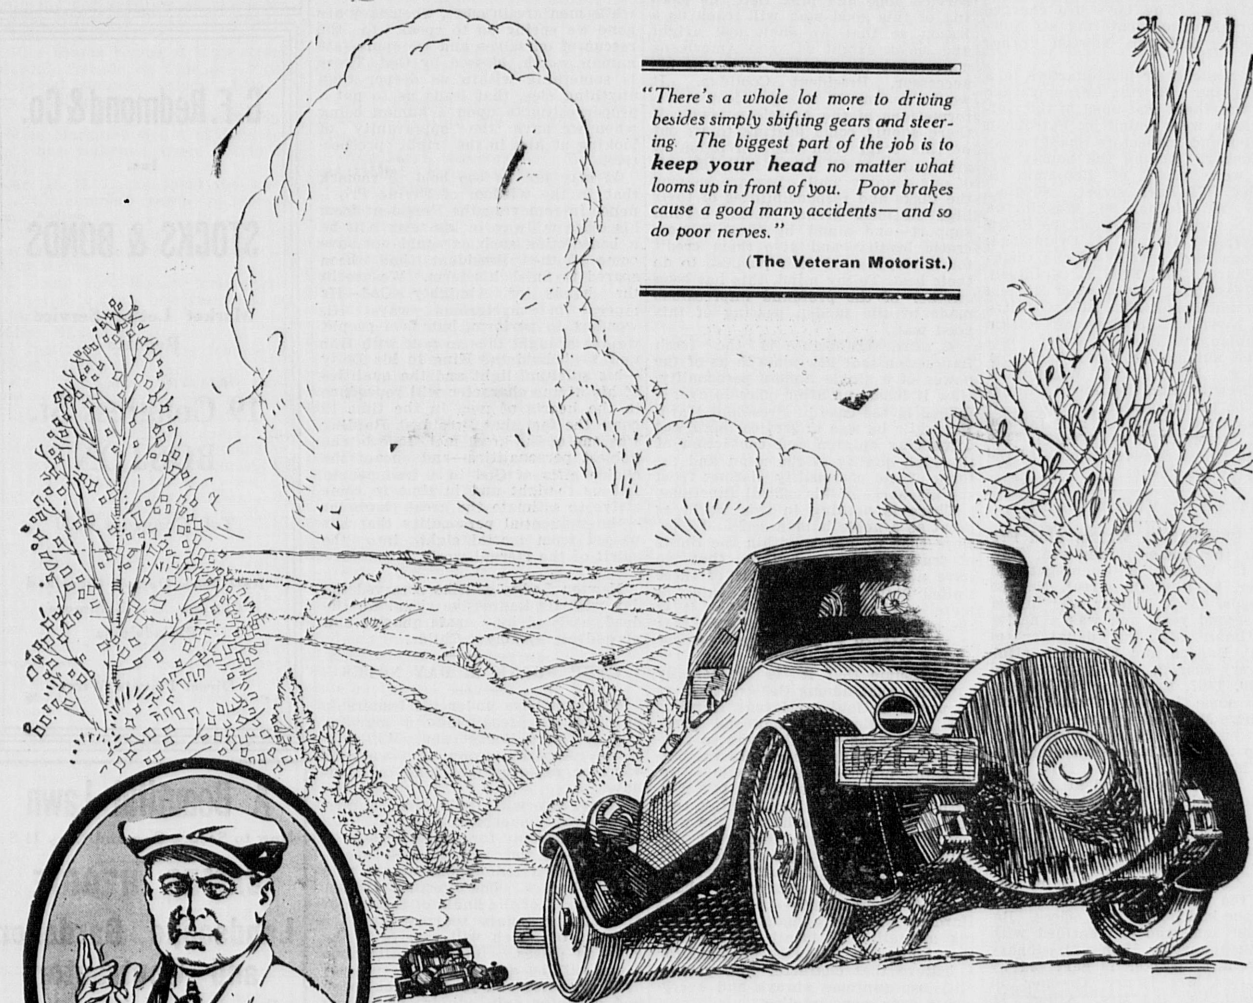

I shall speak of some of the personal characters of our late President. In plain words, I have found that these days and the death of the President himself have paid one more tribute to the eternal outstanding facts of religion. Is it not a tribute to that hidden faith of man that we have heard once more without shame-facedness and from the columns of our newspapers and through their very busy reporters the very familiar words of "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Lead Kindly Light"?

There can be no better America until there are better individual Americans and somehow it seems to me that our hearts have reached down to that individual sense of responsibility during this last week as they have seldom done before.

The death of the President was just

"There's a whole lot more to driving besides simply shifting gears and steering. The biggest part of the job is to keep your head no matter what looms up in front of you. Poor brakes cause a good many accidents—and so do poor nerves."

(The Veteran Motorist.)

Says the Veteran Motorist:

I WISH I could paint some big signs along every motor highway and byway. They would all be alike—just five words. But I'm convinced that those five words would save many a mishap and many a doctor's bill. Here they are: LOOK WELL TO YOUR BRAKES.

"The least every motorist can do, for his own protection and the safety of others, is to be absolutely sure that the brakes are 100% O. K. Many a chap has started out for a spin and come back via the tow-line, sadder and wiser, because his brakes 'didn't work.'

"He thought they were good enough. But when a real test came on a steep hill, with a blind cross-road at the bottom, they didn't measure up. And it happens every day—to somebody. Look well to your brakes!"

such a passing as you or I may come to through overburden of work and he passed away as a Christian—as a great official—as a gentleman of high qualities and bearing—as anyone of us might hope and expect to pass away—and so the emphasis of it has been greater.

I have rejoiced in my own small way, as I hope you have in the last few days, that we have breathed real Democracy's air once more,—purified almost sanctified by the peaceful ways of death. It has been a great moment and I am not so sure but that the passing of him in the distant city of San Francisco on the Pacific Coast was perhaps a stroke of Providence.

I have talked with men from across the sea since the War and they have told me not once but repeatedly of how they marvelled at our institution here of a Sunday without the use of automobiles or gas and our voluntary restriction on the use of sugar and such small things as those. They were impressed by the small things carried out here due to the universal sense of Public opinion.

I must say at this time that our newspapers have wonderfully expressed the voice of America. They have been a wonderful order of public opinion and I think if the editor of a little country newspaper who rose to the Chief Magistracy of our country could speak to us tonight he would regard these instruments of public opinion not as something to cast aside and trample upon but to hold in right authority.

One more tribute has been paid to the astounding work of individual character. We did not know Mr. Harding and some, of course, misunderstood politically or personally one way or other but it has dawned upon me in the last few days that Mr. Harding really meant his kindness—he meant it as a powerful thing. He was in far more serious earnestness about it than I imagined myself and if penitence has a note in our service tonight, I take a seat on the chief mourner's bench in that I did not realize how fully he meant that heart of kindness—so we have had another tribute to Harding.

Religion, Democracy and Public Opinion at last come down to the value and worth of the individual citizen and soul.

I think President Harding was perhaps like a great iceberg which floats in the sea, seven-eighths hidden and only one-eighth visible and up to this time we have only seen one-eighth of his character and had it been the Providential wisdom of God to spare him for further service. It might, indeed, well have been that the other seven-eighths would have been seen and highly recognized.

It seems this to me that the life of Mr. Harding has melted suddenly into the warm gulf stream of death in order that his full value might be appreciated.

Hon. George S. Smith said:

We witnessed in the last eight days one hundred and ten or more million people of every race on the face of the Earth, representing very nearly all the religions of the Earth—and forgetting all political differences and creeds with bowed heads—unashamed for the tear in the eye and the break in the voice, attesting as perhaps never before that the heart of America was sound and true and would repeatedly when put to the test, abolish those forces that seek to break in and destroy our ideals—our principles—our aspirations—and something more than that—the silent, unspoken tributes without break or discord are the sub-conscious answers from those one hundred and ten million people.

My fellow-countrymen, "We have got to have more of the Christ"—and let me tell you, my friends, that I know something of the busy business men not alone in our home city—but well over the country and they are not the sort of men they are painted to be—they are not the selfish men they are pictured to be—and at present—as never before that they are coming to recognize and gradually welcome the thought and the power and the aim of Christ in this busy world, but turn now for just a moment in retrospect.

Until these eight days, the best of men were expressing disappointment in President Harding's administration and in fairness to him let us say for a moment—so briefly something about his administration that now stands out in evidence. They said it was not strong—I say that a man who can get together the strongest cabinet in generations was not a weak man—and a great man was he who could inspire his co-workers that as they labored—he would labor and give them the credit of their labors. Without exaggeration, fifty critics of President Harding's administration—strong big business men have said to me, personally, in the last eight days—"I do not know when I have been so struck down and I do not know when I have been so surprised and impressed." "Was it not because President Harding was a Christian-man?"—And they said, "Yes." It is because he was a Christian man.

I am going to tell you a little story. There was once a business man who was stripped of his property and subsequently of his wife. He became more and more cynical and he eventually moved away from the great city to a little village or hamlet at the foot of the mountain on the top of which was graven a remarkable likeness of man.

He locked the doors and windows and drew the curtains save one where he sat out in the kitchen looking day after day—month after month at that great stone face at the top of the mountain—and it seemed to him to be the face of God—so cold—so merciless—so unrelenting and unjust—and thus he brooded—day after day.

One day he heard the cry of a little child and an all-impelling power led him on—he couldn't rest. He opened the door—looked out and could see nobody but heard the cry which led him on and on. After two or three miles he came to a turn in the road and there was a little baby girl of three or four years of age crying her little heart out. Stopping down, he spoke to her and lo,—a transformation. That face stood out there like a cameo in the clear blue sky and seemed to look on in human sympathy, kindness and fatherly love—He looked down and asked why it was he never saw that face look like that before and she said, "It always looks like that on this side of the mountain"—"It is always like that!" And almost impulsively he reached down and grasped her to his breast saying—"I am going to move over to this side of the mountain."

For two and one-half years men not in unkindness—but because this world has been so over-burdened with immense problems that our expectancy was abnormal and impossible, men have looked upon the face in photo and in person of Mr. Harding and not in unkindness have said, "Why haven't you done more?"

From now on 'til the end of time—let us move over to the other side of the mountain."

Prof. English said:

His sudden and tragic going—the mystery of life! One moment he was there in conference with his kindred and friends—enjoying their companionship—increasing their happiness—entering into all of their concerns—the representative of the greatest people on the face of the Earth—bearing the unspeakable heavy weight of the responsibility of the Chief Executive of a mighty people—officially the strength and the stay of our political institutions—of our institutions of liberty. The next moment gone—his voice silent, giving no response to those who speak to him. In the twinkling of an eye—moving out from under the weight of this vast responsibility—no longer able to turn a hand to achieve the functions of the office to which he had been so unanimously elected. How mighty the change! One moment here—the next moment there. It is probably true that if he had passed away in the quiet of his home in the White

Friday, August 10, 1923, will undoubtedly go down in history as one of the most impressive days in the life of the United States of America. We must confess to a feeling of trepidation when our citizens were urged to make the day a day of reverence and prayer for our late beloved President, for we had a feeling that in every community there are many people who do not seem to appreciate the fact that sentiment is a real factor in life. To our astonishment, the day was observed in both letter and spirit, as a day of reverence and prayer and seemed like one of the Sundays of thirty years ago. We honor the American people and we are specially proud of the people of Newton for the observance of the day. So long as the citizens of this great country cherish and practice such sentiments as made last Friday a holy day, there is little fear for the future of the Republic.

A careful examination of the figures on which the new tax rate of $26.60 is based leads to the conclusion that the increase is wholly due to the city budget and the additions which have been made to it. With the state, county and metropolitan warrants showing an increase of about $6,000 and with the deductions showing a loss of but $4,000, it is clear that an increase from $2,859,000 in 1922 to $3,138,000 in 1923 for city expenses is wholly responsible for the addition to the rate of $1.20. It has been said that the loss of some $90,000 in the national bank tax was responsible for the increase, and it is true that if the normal amount had been received from this source, that would have been a further reduction of about 90 cents in the rate, but this would merely have covered up the real reason, which as we have already stated, is the cost of our city administration.

The news that the district attorneys of the state are to get together to formulate a code of rules in regard to co-ordinate recommendations to the courts for jail sentences in cases of conviction of operating automobiles while under the influence of liquor, is to be heartily commended and we trust the justices of our Superior courts will follow such recommendations. Judicial clemency in such cases is a great mistake and offenders should be given the full sentence allowed by law.

The State Department of Public Works has done good work in preparing a drastic set of rules and regulations governing bill boards in this Commonwealth. While the department has been rather slow to take action the new rules seem to fully cover what the people of the state overwhelmingly approved some years ago in voting for the present bill board amendment to the constitution. Let us hope that the proposed rules will be adopted and strictly enforced.

The thought of those thousands of American citizens travelling for miles and standing for hours waiting for the funeral train of President Harding to pass on its long way from coast to coast, grips the imagination and causes unbidden tears to start from the eyes. So long as such sentiments sway the hearts of American citizens the future of our country is assured.

The report of the Commissioner of Public Safety on the causes of fire in this state for six months, ending June 30th is a serious reflection on the carelessness of the average citizen. We should all take to heart Commissioner Foote's admonitions on this most important matter.

The prayers and best wishes of a host of friends in the parish of St. Bernard's Church go with Father Cronin to his new pastorate at Orient Heights.

NEWTON MAN BURNED

Harry Bruder of 162 Clark street, Newton Centre, was seriously burned Monday afternoon, in an explosion of gasoline in the 45-foot motor cruiser Izette, owned by Harry F. Kiley, president of Kiley, Bruder & Kiley, Inc., leather brokers at 10 High street. The boat was anchored, bow and stern, off the Point Shirley Yacht Club. Bruder, who is a son of Mr. Kiley's partner, Martin Bruder, had been aboard it all day preparing it for delivery to Capt. Brackett of Portland who had just purchased it from Kiley. Edward F. Welch, steward of the yacht club, was sitting on the club piazza, keeping an eye on the fleet because of the strong wind. He noticed that the Izette was dragging her anchor and drifting dangerously near to the rocks bordering Shirley Gut. He called Matthew Welch and in the latter's boat they went to the rescue. They got a towline aboard, but as they started to pull out the anchor chain of the Izette fouled the propeller on Welch's boat. Welch received a badly bruised hand as the chain end flipped around. Both boats were caught in the rip tide through the gut and as they swung onto the rocks of Deer Island, Welch clambered aboard the Izette.

Just as they grounded, still several yards from shore, there was an explosion of the tank containing 27 gallons of gasoline. Welch jumped overboard and swam ashore, but Bruder was wrapped in flame. The rims of his glasses took fire and burned his eyes so seriously that his sight may be affected. He also was burned about the body.

Assistant Warden James Murray saw the boats in trouble and brought two prisoners to the water's edge. The flames were then licking about the feet of Bruder. They called to him to jump and then fished him from the water with a boathook. He was taken to the prison hospital and then to the Long Island hospital.

Because of the rumor that 150 gallons more of gasoline were on board the boat the prison fire department hung back. As a result, the boat, valued at $10,000, is an almost total loss. It had a 70 horsepower engine, capable of driving her 22 miles an hour. The cabin was fitted with bunks, electric lights and galley.

POLICE NOTES

The office of the inspectors of the Newton Police Department at Headquarters has the appearance of a sample display room with about $1500 worth of rings, watches, opera glasses, knives, old coins, games, revolvers and countless other small articles, the loot of 11 Newton boys, all less than 16, who will be arraigned in the Newton District Juvenile Court today charged with breaking and entering and larceny. The boys are charged with breaking and entering six Newton homes and two Newton Corner stores.

They made their headquarters in a shack behind a Newton Corner garage and it was there that most of the stolen articles were found by Patrolman F. Feeley and Inspectors Shaughnessy and Conroy. Among the houses entered were those of Benjamin S. Hinkley, 177 Park street, Newton; Arthur W. Hollis, 90 Washington street, Newton, president of the Board of Aldermen; Dev. C. A. A REMARKABLE TRIBUTE

House this sense of mystery would not have come home to us in the course in which it does—but far away from home—on the shore of the ocean—the other side of the continent with the single loss of a breath he has passed from mortal sight into the unseen world—from the scenes of time into the scenes of eternity.

How trivial is the mystery of that change—Here today—gone tomorrow and so far as the direct discharge of duties is concerned to my own mind this has been one of the deepest impressions that have come to me concerning the sudden death of our beloved President. Again his sudden and tragic passing has left, upon the American conscience a sense of wickedness in the way in which we treat our public servants while they are in office. Like all of his predecessors, in the presidential office he was subject to harsh criticisms and nothing too bitter could be said against him. The same was true in the case of Washington and furthermore, we in this late day have no idea of the vituperation that was vested upon that great man—so it has been ever since.

President Harding was a man of exceptional kindly and forgiving spirit and I have no doubt but that the arrow that pierced his soul was a poisoned arrow. Yes, while our public servants are in office we treat them in a shameful and disgraceful way and I believe that we as Americans will take this lesson to ourselves. There has been a change of estimation concerning him—very sudden, very radical. I think I have read about all the tributes that some of the papers have had concerning this change of opinion. Men in his own party and his most bitter political enemies have so radically changed around as to say with great boldness that he was not only a good President but a great President—one of the greatest in the history of our lives. We as a people should cherish this attitude toward our public servants.

May we not here in this memorial service hope and pray that the passing of this good man will teach us a lesson so that we shall feel right and speak aright as loyal Americans concerning the administration of his successor, President Coolidge. It would be one of the grandest transformations of the American people if there should come floating to us out of this tragic end the conviction of giving due credit to the high officials of our country while they are bearing the tasks and responsibilities of their high stations—giving them cordial support—and stand by them—democratic loyalty—and give them credit for the esteem of their purpose to do their best. To my mind, this has been another of the profound impressions made by the sudden passing of this good man.

A third significance is the fresh impression that has come to us of the power of a single human personality. How it looms up after office is over—Indeed in the case of President Harding while he was in service there was a growing opinion and conviction of the high quality of the mind and the force of his personality distinct from the discharge of his official functions.

There is nothing in this world as great as a noble human self and I believe that we speak within the limits of truth when we confirm that we have never had a President of these United States of whom it could be more emphatically stated that it is the man himself stripped of office that is the mighty and singular power among men.

I presume that it is universally supposed that among the great rulers of pagan antiquity—Marcus Aurelius the Roman Emperor and the great man in Athens—Pericles who so marvelously ruled that city were the outstanding noble figures in public life, but when you contrast these two men with President Harding I think that you must clearly see how in the noblest essentials of character and the sublime height of a great personality he shone as a bright star to them.

It has been remarked—I have heard it several times—that President Harding was not a man of outstanding mentality. I firmly believe that that impression is to be changed for I believe that character and personality are supreme always and everywhere over mere intellect.

A philosopher has said that intellect is only a small part of the human mind and Mark Hopkins used to teach it at Williams College—the true order was intellect at the bottom

—following next about the character and supreme to both the will. It is President Harding's character and personality and his christianlike manner that will be the living force in time to come and when you notice it—that has been true of our greatest Presidents, Washington, Lincoln, McKinley, Roosevelt and now Harding.

I feel that I am saying the truth when I remark that for outstanding distinctive Christian characters we have never had quite the equal of President Harding in office. If you will analyze this character a little you will see and I say it reverently that it was a reflex of the character of his Superior and Lord, Jesus Christ.

He was noted for his kindness, sympathy, courage, tenderness and that has portrayed the character of our late revered and beloved President and these are the qualities that in the end win the battle. They do not always do so at once, but when time furnishes the true prospectus—it is the character—it is the nobility—the personality that helps us to reach the desired end.

Has history in its long reach ever seen such an outpouring of a world of sorrow and of sympathy as we have seen in these recent days? It is worthy of the most gifted poet to paint the scene of that official train moving slowly across the American continent and from the wide expanse of the country and through village and hamlet and town and city—men and women and children travelling almost hundreds of miles in the midst of exceptional inconvenience and standing in all sorts of weather hour after hour just to bow their heads in respect and sympathy and affection as the train slowly rolled by. Humanity in all the ages has never witnessed such a scene as that. While our people are so swift to find fault

while men are in office, when they are gone we spring so to speak to the rescue of ourselves and we appreciate human worth, blessed by God. There is something within us deeper than anything else, that leads us to put a proper estimate upon a human being when we have the opportunity of looking at him in the right prospective.

It may not be too bold to remark that in the wisdom of Divine Providence in removing the President from his office midway in his term will be a benediction such as could not have come if the President had been spared to finish his term. We are in the hands of Almighty God—He moves in mysterious ways. His wonders to perform, but as a people, we are brought face to face with Him and we behold the King in his Deity—his spiritual light and the qualities of his divine character will reproduce in the hearts of men in the time to come the fact that President Harding was one of the great men—one of the noblest personalities—and one of the choice gifts of God to a free people. Let us to-night and in time to come strive to estimate the great character—the influential personality that has passed from mortal sight into the spirit of the eternal world.

Newton Lodge of Elks observed the day with its impressive ritual for the dead, assisted by a male quartet and an address by Mayor Childs.

Human Will and Destiny.

He who uses only a fraction of his native gifts is not only holding himself back, but he is thwarting the efforts of others. And for the remedy for his limitations he is looking everywhere else but the right place—within himself. What one wants to do, he may do. What he wants to have, he may have. What he would become is within his reach. The exceptions to this rule are not worth mentioning. Our will is the master of our destiny.—Grit.

"TELL HIM NOW"

If with pleasure you are viewing
Any work a man is doing,
If you like him or you love him, tell him now;

Don't withhold your approbation
Till the person makes oration
And he lies with snowy lilies o'er his brow;

For no matter how you shout it
He won't really care about it;
He won't know how many teardrops you have shed;

If you think some praise is due him
Now's the time to slip it to him,
For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.

More than fame and more than money
Is the comment kind and sunny,
And the hearty, warm approval of a friend;

For it gives to life a savor,
And it makes him stronger, braver,
And it gives him heart and spirit to the end;

If he earns your praise, bestow it;
If you like him, let him know it
Let the words of true encouragement be said;

Do not wait till life is over
And he's underneath the clover,
For he cannot read his tombstone when he's dead.

FULLER-MANN

A very pretty wedding took place on Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Mann, Auburndale, when their daughter Doris Elma and Mr. John Morrill Fuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Fuller, of Auburndale were united in marriage by Rev. George S. Butters, D. D., the double ring service being used.

The bride and bridesmaid, Miss Corabel Robinson, of Auburndale, entered the room to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Ruth M. Thomas of Newtonville, where the groom and best man, Mr. Franklin De Merritt of Hanover, were waiting in front of a background of cut flowers and ferns arranged by Miss Ellen Fuller.

The bride wore a dress of white georgette crepe and lace, with white silk, a bridal veil caught up by orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore pink organdie and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas and roses.

After the ceremony the guests were introduced by the ushers. Kenneth E. Mann, Ralph E. Keyes and Louis Felix Ranlett, all of Auburndale.

Refreshments were served by the "Monday Night Sewing Club," of which the bride is a member.

Gifts were presented to the bridesmaid and girls who served, by the bride and to the best man and ushers by the groom.

The wedding gifts were many and beautiful.

At 3.30 o'clock the newly weds departed amid a shower of confetti and cheering cheers from about 150 guests and headed for Boston, but were driven out of the way to skip the chasers in other machines. They finally succeeded in reaching Boston and took the boat to New York.

After a trip of three weeks they will make their home on Charles Street, Auburndale.

COMMENDS CONGRESSMAN LUCE

Mr. Edward E. Clark of Framingham, member of the Republican state committee for this district, writes us as follows: Editor, Newton Graphic:

On the 28th day of last February, when only four days remained of the Sixty-Seventh Congress, an incident of much general interest and of unique interest to the people of the Thirtieth Massachusetts Congressional District occurred in the House of Representatives, at Washington.

That incident was a tribute of applause to our own congressman, Robert Luce.

Now applause is common in the lower branch of our national legislature. In the Senate, it is unknown. If a Senator should clap his hands for any other purpose than that of calling a page, he would be set down as insane; and if an occupant of the Senate gallery, unused to Senatorial customs, manifests his feeling in that way, he is likely to be ejected promptly.

But the House is a less dignified and more noisy body; and its generous-minded members frequently "give a hand" to a fellow-member as he rises to speak or concludes what he may have to say.

The applause given to Mr. Luce was not of that character, however. To give an idea of what it was like, it is necessary for me to go briefly into the history of certain legislation of the last session.

Everyone knows that, during recent months, there has been much talk of relief to the farmers through the enactment of federal laws. Numerous ideas have been suggested, various statutes were proposed. All of these finally crystallized into three bills, the "Capper-Tincher Act," the "Lenroot-Anderson Bill" and the "Strong Bill." The purpose of all these was to be, in a general way, the furnishing of credit facilities to the farmer and stock-raiser, to assist them in raising and bringing to maturity their products and marketing them at good prices; but the details of these bills differed in ways to which it is unnecessary to make reference here. Each supplemented the other; and all three were necessary, if any one was.

The first two of these bills had passed the Senate and the last named had passed the House when a bombshell was exploded in the form of a letter written by the Secretary of the Treasury, pointing out what he considered to be most serious defects in the "Lenroot-Anderson" bill and advocating its rejection.

That occurred late in February; and the result was that upon the House Committee on Banking and Currency, which was then considering the bills, devolved the arduous duty of deciding what action should be taken at such a critical juncture, with only a few days of the session remaining.

This committee met, morning, noon and night for several days; and finally evolved a bill, taking in many of the features of all three bills named above, leaving out many more and introducing other new ones.

What happened was, that in the last days of a dying Congress, the Committee had the temerity to construct, upon a few days' consideration, an act providing for an entirely new system of banking, for an entirely new object and involving the expenditure of taxpayers' moneys, reaching into the hundreds of millions.

But not all the members of the Committee permitted themselves to be carried away in that manner. One, and one alone, Robert Luce of Massachusetts, dissented, and announced his intention of carrying his objections to the Bill to the floor of the House of Representatives.

When the "Farm Credits Bill," as it was called, was brought into the House on the last day of February, the fight against it was Robert Luce's fight. Others joined him on both sides of the chamber, including the gifted Bourke Cochran, who was to die before another sunrise. But upon Mr. Luce's shoulders fell an overwhelming share of the fight.

In a speech, comparable in eloquence I believe, with any that has been made in the national capital for years, he pointed out how, in three days' time, the committee had thrown together a bill providing a system as important in principle as the Federal Reserve System, which had been constructed only after as many months' study; he showed the cause of the depression in the only agricultural districts which could possibly be benefited by the bill; and brought out clearly the possibilities of speculation under its operation, speculation by the use of funds furnished by the Government and taken from the pockets of other taxpayers.

Explaining clearly the terms of the proposed act and the results probable under its operation, he showed how it could be of no possible benefit to the small farmer or the farmer of New England and the East generally but only to the great landed proprietors; and finished with an eloquent peroration, describing the character of the people of Massachusetts and of his district in particular, bringing out their qualities of thriftiness and showing how their savings deposited in Massachusetts Banks, were already being used, in the form of loans to the middle states' farmers, for the very purposes which the proponents of the bill sought to accomplish.

When Mr. Luce finished, there was a scene which it is difficult to describe. To understand it, one must have a proper appreciation of the situation. He was not advocating a great, popular measure, but was standing in the breach, almost alone, fighting a measure, hastily constructed and full of faults, but bound to pass. For principle's sake, knowing he was right, he was leading a "forlorn hope."

The applause which greeted him has exceeded in volume, within my experience and knowledge, only once. That was when Congressman Burton of Ohio made his speech upon the British debt refunding act. The situation there was far different, however, for Mr. Burton was upon the popular side—was speaking upon a bill which was sure to pass.

But it was not the volume of sound which most impressed those who were present, but its direction and unanimity. I looked around the House from my seat in the gallery and saw no man upon the floor who did not join. I saw men from the sections which are supposed to be benefited by the act, men who had personal and selfish interests in it, and "fire-eaters" who are always opposed to what they call the "effete" New England and Massachusetts, and people from that section. All were applauding; and they were doing it because they knew it was deserved—almost, in some cases, it seemed to me, as if they just couldn't help it.

The tribute which was given to Robert Luce upon that occasion, it struck me the time was a true reflection of how he is regarded in Washington. Some months ago I was talking with a member and he told me something of the work of the very important Committee on Banking and Currency, of which Mr. Luce is a member, and of the part he takes in that work.

If I had not taken up more space already, Mr. Editor, than I ought, I should like to go into that briefly, too. Suffice it to say that he has, in comparatively short time that he has been in Washington, by force of his ability and character, become an outstanding figure of importance there; and that he is universally looked upon with respect by his colleagues and wields great influence in the Congress of the United States.

Very truly yours,

EDWARD E. CLARK.

TWO OF A KIND

"The world is but a small place after all" is an old saying, and it was forcibly brought to mind by an incident that happened to Jeremiah Herlihy, a foreman in the Newton Water department on a recent trip to Montreal, Canada. Mr. Herlihy was a delegate to a convention held in the city of Montreal, Quebec, Canada, and delegates from all parts of the United States and Canada, and was much surprised to hear the name of one Jerome Herlihy of Delaware mentioned as one of the important committees and decided to look the man up during a recess in the proceedings.

Imagine his pleasure when he met the gentleman from the peach growing state, to learn that he was a first cousin of his own who had left Ireland some forty years ago and who was the last man to bid him good-bye when he left the old land. Both came to this country but not at the same time and it is said that both gentlemen were active in the movement for Irish liberty at that time.

Needless to say the meeting was a happy one, and the hospitality of the Canadian city was taxed to give expression to the unexpected reunion.

AMERICAN MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY

THE cornerstone of the home of this wonderful collection in Manhattan Square, New York City, which contains some ten acres of floor space, was laid by President Grant in 1877.

The purpose of this great "curiosity shop" is to procure actual specimens upon which accurate knowledge of the animals, birds, minerals and other wonders of the world are based and exhibit them for the edification of the public.

A few of the displays which attract particular attention, the like of which probably does not exist elsewhere, are: the largest known meteorite, brought from Greenland and weighing 36 tons; an Indian dugout 64½ feet long, made from a single tree; a section of a California tree, 16 feet in diameter and more than 1,300 years old; a life-size model of a 79 foot whale, probably the largest animal that ever lived and which probably weighed 70 tons; mounted specimens of more different kinds of birds than you imagine the world contains; a collection of implements used by prehistoric man, representing a period of approximately 250,000 years; exhibits of fishes, including some so primitive as to be scaleless; an exhibit of snakes that gives you the creeps; an intensely interesting exhibit showing how disease is transmitted by insects, and a library of some 70,000 volumes on natural history, travel and anthropology.

CROWN OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

According to Custom and Law, It Must Be Used in the Coronation of Every Czar.

There is probably no collection of regalia in the world that can compare with that of Russia either in historic interest or financial value. It consists of a large number of crowns, orbs, scepters, thrones, and the gorgeous costumes of the czars.

The greatest interest attaches to the crowns themselves, which are quite the most remarkable examples of the Russian jeweler's art in existence. But the old crown of Monomach is apparently the most interesting of all.

An article entitled "The House With Shuttered Windows," by W. T. Maxwell in the London Magazine, says: "A clause in the old Russian code of laws states that the crown of Monomach shall be used at the coronation of all the czars, and the vast majority of Russian peasants believe that whichever of the remaining Romanoffs secures it will be the next czar."

"This is perhaps an idle belief, but exiled kings and pretenders have been known to clutch at less important straws, and there can be no doubt that the removal of the crown of Monomach to the Russian pretenders' house in Paris would considerably strengthen their hands."

CHURCHES MIGHT AID ART

Suggestion Put Forward That They Encourage Creative Work for Its Own Sake.

Among all the religious denominations in America today is there not one which has enough faith in the soundness of human kind, in the professed belief that the things of the spirit ought to prevail, to risk fostering the creative arts just because they are a good in themselves? How easily might one of the great denominations with all of its existing machinery and with the employment of some special educational representatives bring together and direct unselfishly those who would enrich life by interpreting life! What an opportunity to develop a great religious drama, a great religious music, a great religious graphic or plastic art! And what an opportunity to render an even greater service by encouraging every creator to speak the highest truth within him, whatever it happened to be! Here is a definite avocation for the church that might in some degree supplant the prefatory semisocial activities that make up the weekly routine in the great body of churches in most denominations.

The exportations of scrap metals collected on the battlefields and of old steel rails and other metal pieces used in France during the war continue through the port of Boulogne-sur-Mer. Statistics for 1922 show only an insignificant decrease in the tonnage as compared with 1921, the record year. England takes practically all of these exports. Figures obtained from the French customs authorities showing the exportation of scrap metals from Boulogne-sur-Mer in 1919 to 1922 are: Brass and copper scrap, 36 metric tons in 1919, 696 in 1920, 5,941 in 1921, and 2,951 in 1922; iron scrap, 66 metric tons in 1920, 1,693 in 1921, and 1,580 in 1922; steel scrap, 14,958 metric tons in 1920, 37,087 in 1921, and 34,569 in 1922.

"Cork Wool."

"Wool" is being manufactured from cork in Spain, and it may be substituted for natural wool in mattresses, pillows, quilts, etc., as it is cleaner and lighter than wool.

Government officials at Washington have received from the same source information relative to a Spanish process for utilizing cork as a textile material. The cork is employed in the form of very fine pellicles of which fourteen go to make the thickness of a millimeter (0.03937 inch). It is first treated with chemicals to remove any resinous substances and to make it flexible. The cork is then sewn between two cotton sheets and pressed several times.—Washington Star.

Where There's a Won't.

An old German farmer heard that his bank was on the verge of bankruptcy and hurried into town to draw out his money.

"I want my money! I want my money! Effery cent!" he almost screamed.

"Well, don't get excited; I'll get it for you," replied the clerk of that perfectly solvent institution.

"O-o-oh! So? Can I haff it?"

"Certainly."

"Vell, den, I don't want it!"—American Legion Weekly.

American Rice.

During the past two decades the development of rice culture into one of the leading industries of our Gulf states has established the fact that American rice is of a very high grade. Proof is furnished from Cuba, where rice is eaten at every meal, and where the American product has already won the reputation of being superior in richness of flavor and in nutritive quality to the rice of India, China or Japan.

Righto.

"I believe in whipping children," said the Wise Old Guy. "Spare the rod, you know."

"Yep," agreed his friend. "But say, isn't it funny how your ideas change after you put on long pants?"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

RECEPTION TO FR. CRONIN

An audience that taxed the capacity of the hall, gathered last Friday night in the Newton Catholic Club House to pay a last tribute of affection to Rev. Francis Cronin, who was recently appointed pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Orient Heights, after having served as a curate and acting pastor in St. Bernard's Parish for nearly twenty-one years.

The affair was arranged by a committee of parishioners, headed by Alderman T. C. Hickey, working under the direction of Rev. William J. Dwyer, Pastor of St. Bernard's Church. Seated in the audience, with other invited guests, were Mr. William Cronin, the venerable 87-year old father of Father Cronin, Mrs. Eugene Driscoll, his sister, Mrs. Henry J. Galligan and Mrs. Thomas Kelliher of Canton, near relatives, and Captain John E. Hayes of Jamaica Plain, a life-long friend.

Alderman Hickey presided and introduced as the first speaker Joseph J. Curran, who briefly reviewed Father Cronin's manifold activities, spoke of his deep interest in the Sunday School and the Newton Catholic Club, of which he was the founder, and referred to his forceful character and personality, his great moral and physical courage, his deep faith and his characteristic modesty, unselfish-

ELKS' ANNUAL OUTING

The annual outing of Newton Lodge of Elks was held Wednesday afternoon and evening at Spring Grove, Wellesley, with an attendance of about 250. The party left the Elks' Home on Centre street in automobiles at 1.30 o'clock and arrived at the grove at 2 o'clock. A dinner of steamed clams, corn on the cob, chicken and lobster was served. The feature was a baseball game between the married and single Elks, which was called in the 10th inning, 5 to 5. Alderman Thomas White was umpire at the plate with Thomas J. Lyons, Play-ground Commissioner of Newton, on the bases. A board of appeals sat on the bench, consisting of Malcolm McKinnon, E. R., George M. Heathcote and Thomas J. Sullivan. There was an entertainment in the evening of songs and dances by a colored troupe. W. U. Fogwill was chairman of the committee, assisted by Fred Avantaggio, Vincent M. Turley, Harold Moore, Thomas J. Lyons, Louis J. Tabaldi, Harry Hunt, Malcolm P. McKinnon, E. R., J. FATAL ACCIDENT IN FRANCE

Rev. Dr. H. Grant Person, Pastor of Eliot Church and Mrs. Person Instantly Killed

Residents of this city were horrified to learn Tuesday morning that Rev. Dr. H. Grant Person and Mrs. Person had been killed and their two sons, Carlton and Robert, seriously injured in an automobile accident which took place on Monday on a mountain road some 60 miles from Nice.

Dr. Person and Mrs. Person were probably instantly killed and Carlton and Robert, their sons seriously injured. Robert received a fractured skull and Carlton had both jawbones broken. Both the boys are in the hospital at Nice where they are receiving the best of care. Mr. Prescott, a warm friend of the family, and connected with the firm of Proctor-Ellison Co. was in Paris at the time and was cabled by Mr. Ellison to go to Nice at once and do everything possible for the boys. A report received this morning states that Carlton is in-panning has been performed on Robert, who is still seriously hurt. The bodies of Dr. and Mrs. Person will be sent home in steel caskets and without waiting for the formal inquest.

Six Americans were killed and some 15 persons injured in the accident. The party had stopped for lunch on in the little village of Gullaumes about 60 miles from Nice and had allowed a Frenchman, Jean Paul of Nice to take a seat in the car. The accident took place on the mountain road which runs close to a precipice and above the river Var. At a point where the road takes a sharp bend, the driver, who was among those killed, seemed to lose control of his car and it crashed through the parapet and fell into the river 75 feet below.

OLD TIMERS OF WEST NEWTON

The old timers of West Newton will stage a baseball game between the white and colored players of a decade ago (none under 35 eligible to play) Wednesday, August 29th, 1923, at 6.15 P. M., on West Newton Playground. Come one and all and see how Father Time has used the veterans. There will be plenty of thrills. Children and grand children, come out to see your forefathers in action. Doctors and druggists take notice. James Ryan, old timer of Newton High will pilot the white brigade, while the colored veterans' welfare will be looked after by Frank E. Carter, who piloted many teams to victory in West Newton 20 years or more ago and still feels able to give a good account of his old team mates on August 29th. Plenty of nurses have volunteered their services for this occasion. Don't miss it. Thomas J. Lyons will be on hand for the sport and business also.

BAND CONCERT

Calderwood's Band will give a band concert at Riverside Recreation Grounds next Sunday afternoon from 3.30 to 5.30.

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO FR. FRANCIS CROMIN

ness, and self-sacrifice. Father John J. Allston, an associate curate at St. Bernard's, feelingly alluded to his pleasant relations with Father Cronin, whose priestly qualities and deep humility he extolled, praising the spirit in which he had devoted his splendid talents untiringly and unselfishly in the service of the Church and the community. Mayor Edwin O. Childs spoke of his long years of personal friendship and admiration for Father Cronin, whom he characterized as a man of vision, of faith and of perseverance, and a force for good in the community whose influence could not be over-estimated. Father Thomas P. MacManmon, Pastor of the new Church of Corpus Christi at Auburndale, in a pleasant vein, jocosely referred to Father Cronin's metamorphosis from a curate, and welcomed him into the ranks of the pastors, congratulating him on the signal honor that had been conferred on him by His Eminence, and prophesying still further honors for him. Father William J. Dwyer, Pastor of St. Bernard's Church, dwelt on the favorable impression made on him by Father Cronin in the short time he had known him—by his extreme modesty and great worth and in behalf of the people of the parish presented him with a substantial check, enclosed in a suitably engraved card case. Father Cronin, though much overcome by the warmth of the various tributes, disclaimed any particular credit for what he had done, thanked all for their help and assistance to him, and urged that they continue their splendid cooperation with Father Dwyer in the essential work of the Newton Catholic Club and the building of the new parochial school, now on the way.

A fine musical program was rendered, under the direction of Mr. John Henley, organist of St. Bernard's, assisted by Miss Cervera Foley and the following soloists, Marie Laffie, Mr. Jack Joyce and Mr. Timothy O'Callaghan. Mr. Charles A. Laffie and Mr. John R. Kyte were in charge of the seating arrangements.

POLICE NOTES

Following examination by City Physician Fred M. Lowe, Joseph Carney, age 20, who was arrested Monday morning at Newton Corner on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny, was ordered by Judge Bacon committed to the State Asylum for the Criminal Insane at Bridgewater. Carney, who, it is alleged by the police, broke into a store at 201 Tremont street, was captured at the point of a revolver by patrolman Green who discovered a broken window in the establishment. The prisoner's actions decided the court that he should be examined relative to his sanity. Carney's home is at 12 Spooner street, New Bedford.

Many motorists who have always insisted on the best in everything they buy, have discarded their heavy, bulky, high-priced cars and have replaced them with the Studebaker Big-Six. And they report that, in every way, it represents precisely their conception of what a really fine motor car should be. They are enthusiastic over their all-round satisfaction with the Big-Six because of its dependability, surplus power, extreme comfort for seven passengers, the completeness of its equipment and its fine appearance.

The series 24 model—the finest Big-Six Studebaker ever built—presents a value unapproached by other cars at anywhere near the price. And its nominal cost of operation is a source of continual satisfaction.

Everything for which one can wish in motoring convenience, comfort and utility has been provided—even to an extra disc wheel complete with tire, tube and tire cover; handsome nickel-plated bumpers, front and rear; automatic gasoline signal mounted on instrument board, and many other features.

The low price of the Big-Six is due to large volume, the fact that Studebaker overhead is shared by three models, the manufacture of all vital parts in Studebaker plants and Studebaker's vast physical and financial resources.

After 71 years of service, the name Studebaker enjoys confidence and respect more than ever.

Paint for this big barn less than $27⁰⁰

YOU will be surprised that two coats of paint for a big barn like this (64' x 36') costs less than $27, but you can do the job with 15 gallons of Certain-teed. It doesn't take farm buildings long to run down without painting, and you can't afford to neglect them when so few gallons of Certain-teed are needed. Bring in your measurements and let us figure the cost with you. We base our figures on Certain-teed prices. Each color sells for what it costs to make plus a fair profit. The price is right and when you start to spread Certain-teed paint you feel the quality.

The Law of the Land, Must and Shall Be Respected

EDITORIAL

While there is some criticism of the proposed new rules and regulations governing billboards, some of us are grateful that the Department of Public Works has, at last, done something in this direction. The main object is to get something started on the road, which will undoubtedly lead to the United States Supreme Court at Washington and the quicker a beginning is made the sooner we shall know whether the almighty dollar of the billboard men is to blotch and mar the scenic beauty of our state.

In the death of Mr. William Claxton Bray, the city loses one of its most valuable residents, for Mr. Bray might well be termed the main spring of the Newton Hospital. A busy man in many directions, he was a constant visitor at the Hospital and gave freely of his time and his money for its maintenance and expansion. Modest and retiring by nature, few knew of his generosity, but all have received the benefit of it. Long may his memory remain to guide those who will take up the work he has just laid down.

The tragic deaths of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. H. Grant Person this week in France, have shocked the members of Eliot church and other friends who knew and loved them. Dr. Person was broad-minded in his religion, democratic and genial in his character, and genuinely sympathetic in his relations with others. Eliot Church has lost a most lovable pastor and the community a valued citizen. The two sons will have the heartfelt sympathy of everyone in their sad bereavement.

Automobile drivers who are constantly kicking about the condition of the roads in this state should now turn their attention to the officers of the Massachusetts Automobile Dealer and Garage Association who by their efforts have blocked the two cent gasoline tax until the state election in November of next year and thereby postponed until the summer of 1925 a comprehensive program of good roads improvement which had been contemplated by the Legislature.

DEATH OF MR. BRAY

Mr. William Claxton Bray, president of the trustees and chairman of the executive committee of the Newton Hospital, died Sunday after several weeks' illness at his home, 91 Institution avenue, Newton Centre.

William Claxton Bray, son of the late Mellen and Persis T. Bray, was born in Turner, Me., and came at an early age with his parents to Newton Centre where he has since resided. As a young man he became vitally interested in the activities of the First Baptist Church, serving in many important capacities. His business life was closely identified with the Tubular Rivet and Stud Company of Boston, of which he was the treasurer.

He is survived by his widow and one son, Robert C. Bray, a brother, Mellen N. Bray, and a sister Mrs. Frank Edmonds.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the First Baptist Church, Newton Centre, and the services were conducted by Rev. Charles M. Arbuttle, D. D., pastor of the Church, assisted by Rev. John M. English, D. D., of the faculty of the Newton Theological Institution. The body was taken to Newton Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

In last week's Graphic there was an obituary of George Royal Pulsifer, who died suddenly on the 14th of August at his summer home in Maine. So far as it went it was a complete obituary. It told where he was born, the years of his graduations from Harvard and from the Harvard law school, of his marriage, of his activities and of the positions which he held during his life. It lacked, however, in this, it did not tell how he lived his life nor how he fulfilled the duties which he took it upon himself to do in the positions which he held.

It is by the manner of his life, by his character, that those who knew him and who held him in deep affection will remember him. To them the positions which he held seem to have been simply so many means, so many opportunities, for the exercise on his part of the same qualities and characteristics which marked his every day life.

Mr. Pulsifer was gentle, courteous, direct. He stood ready to do his part in the world and to do it to the best of his ability. He was a man of firm convictions and he had a way of stating those convictions so simply, so courteously that his very manner of stating them gave them strength. A lawyer who read the news of his death the evening after it said, "I met him only two or three times but I became very fond of him. He was on the other side of a case in which I was retained and my client and I were both impressed by his manner towards us, of his fairness and his sense of justice."

Mr. Pulsifer was born in Newton, he spent the greater part of his life in it and he loved it. Such positions as he was called upon by the city to fill he filled conscientiously and well. He gave generously of his time and he was thorough in the work which he did. His friends often urged him to stand for higher offices but though willing to serve he was not anxious for office and his friends chafed because he would not permit them to take their coats off and campaign for him as actively and energetically as they were eager to do.

In the Newton Hospital, of which his father was one of the founders, he was interested deeply and served as its treasurer for many years. He carried into the work he did for it the whole heartedness and the determination he displayed always.

During the war he gave of himself more than generously. He was treasurer of the Newton Red Cross from the beginning and those who know will agree that it is taking credit from no one of the loyal ones who worked so hard and so faithfully to make the Newton Red Cross the success that it was, to say that in the making of that success he was as great a factor as any. He never thrust himself forward, never attempted to dominate but he counseled modestly and wisely. Outside of the Red Cross he gave long hours to the draft board and as appeal agent his decisions were made with justice and humaneness. His heart was in the cause and his attitude towards the men who were called was that of a father.

His social activities his work in the Newton Players is the best known in Newton. There he displayed real abilities as an actor but the work which he did which counted most, and the effects of which will last longest, was the work he did in the selection of plays with clean and interesting texts and the training and instructions which he gave to the young men and women who took part in them.

Those who had the good fortune to meet him day after day at the luncheon table will remember him as a loyal and charming friend, a man of equable temper, a man who could disagree and not lose his temper nor be bitter in argument.

Take him all in all it is true to say that by all who knew him he will be remembered as George Royal Pulsifer—gentleman.

JOHN CUTLER.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN FRANCE

Mr. Paul escaped with only slight injuries and was able to give an account of the accident.

The car he says proceeded at normal speed over the dangerous roads along the left bank of the River Var ranging from 300 to 900 feet above the level of the river bed.

About 2½ miles south of Guillaumes the road crosses one of the small torrents common in the vicinity. The bridge over this stream is reached by a hairpin turn down the side of the mountain the road in its steep incline dropping 100 feet in less than 1000 yards.

The car gathered terrific speed descending the hill, the chauffeur, according to M. Paul, apparently lost control of the vehicle, as the brakes did not seem to respond. He negotiated the bridge safely, nevertheless, but was unable to take the sharp turn at the opposite end, the car crashing into a parapet and going over at full speed.

The Frenchman, seated on the side of the car opposite the chasm, was thrown into the road and stunned as the vehicle hit the parapet and crashed over. As he fell he heard horrified shrieks from other passengers, who were flung away from the open seats as if from a giant catapult into the river bed below, the car itself turning a complete somersault.

M. Paul says the fact that the car was completely overturned probably saved the lives of many of the passengers, some of whom fell from 20 to 40 feet away from the machine.

The passengers who were killed outright were those who were unable to extricate themselves from the seats and were crushed under the heavy vehicle.

The shrieks of terror as the car fell were succeeded by the wails of the dying and appeals for help from the wounded. Insensible only momentarily, Paul dragged himself to the parapet and gave one look into the chasm.

"I never saw and I never expect to see a more terrifying scene," he told friends, "and I have been through four years of war," he added sadly.

Rev. Dr. Person and family sailed from Montreal June 23 for a summer tour of Europe, on the White Star line steamer, Doris.

Since that time they have toured through England, Scotland, Holland, Germany, Belgium and France. Monday they were leaving Nice for Monte Carlo, after which they intended to return to Paris and then sail for home from Cherbourg on Sept. 1.

Mr. Person was born at Bathellerville, N. Y., Sept. 18, 1866, of New England stock. He received his early education from his mother, who was a teacher in a private school for many years. He prepared for college at Poultny Academy, Poultny, Vt. He was graduated from Williams College in 1891 as class orator, and from the Auburn Theological Seminary at Auburn, N. Y.

His first pastorate was of the Presbyterian Church at Chittenango, N. Y., where he went immediately after leaving the Auburn Theological Seminary. In 1898 he accepted a call to the First Presbyterian Church at Seneca Falls, where he remained until called here sixteen years ago.

1898 he was married to Miss Georgia H. Ferry of Saratoga Springs, N. Y. Mrs. Person is survived by two sisters who are living in Saratoga Springs at the family home, a brother who lives with her sisters, another brother, Fred Ferry, formerly dean of Williams College, and now president of Hamilton College, in New York State.

Mr. Person was a member of the Sunday Club and of the Tuesday Club of Newton, of the Congregational Club of Boston, and president of the Williams College Alumni Association of Boston.

He was a trustee of Poultny Academy, a director of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and a member of the Congregational Church Union, serving during the World War as a Y. M. C. A. secretary. He succeeded Rev. William H. Davis as pastor of the Eliot Church, and made his home at 14 Hyde avenue, Newton.

The following telegram was received this week from Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes by Mr. Charles A. Haskell:

"Charles A. Haskell, 42 Hollis St., Newton, Mass. I regret to inform you that American consul at Nice telegraphs that touring car containing eighteen Americans precipitated over precipice, seventy-five feet, near Guillaumes, sixty miles from Nice, and that the Reverend and Mrs. H. Grant Person of 14 Hyde avenue, Newton, are among the five Americans killed also that Robert T. Person severely injured and Carleton G. Person slightly injured, removed to hospital, Nice, where they were visited by Consul, who is rendering all possible assistance. Consul is conducting memorial services in military mortuary chapel and preface will speak. If it is desired, the Department will advise the consul of wishes as to disposition of remains of deceased and direct him to render all possible assistance."

"Charles E. Hughes, Secretary of State."

The mid-week prayer meeting of Eliot Church held last night was turned into an impromptu memorial service for Dr. and Mrs. Person. Mr. Haskell presided and read the telegram from Secretary Hughes and a cablegram of sympathy was sent to the sons and similar telegrams to the sisters and brother of Mrs. Person.

The bodies will be taken to Saratoga Springs on their arrival in this country and burial will be at that place.

Eliot Church will later hold a memorial service.

MR. SHATTUCK DEAD

Benjamin F. Shattuck, for a number of years identified with real estate interests, and having offices in the Tremont Building, Boston, died on Sunday at the Newton Hospital. He was a native of Boston, was in his seventy-second year, and the son of Samuel and Susan (Rumrill) Shattuck. Mr. Shattuck had at one time been identified with several clubs and other organizations, but had withdrawn of late and had been retired from business for about a year. In 1898 he served ward 3 as an alderman. He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth M. Shattuck, and three daughters, Mrs. Harry H. Ham of Waban, Mrs. Frank L. Brown of Brookline, and Mrs. Selr A. Diefendorf of West Newton.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at his home, Rev. William A. Marzolf of Christ Church, Dorchester, officiated. The pallbearers were Harry H. Ham, Harry Wiggins, Selr Diefendorf and Frank L. Brown. Burial was at Newton Cemetery.

WINS FIRST PRIZE

Mr. William M. Paxton of Montvale road, Newton Centre, the well-known artist, has been awarded first prize at the exhibition of the Duxbury Art Association.

The jury consisted of Miss Gertrude Flske, Mr. Philip Hale and Mr. Leslie P. Thompson.

Mr. Paxton's painting is entitled "Interior." It is a characteristic work of his, being highly finished and one of his usual subjects. A woman very tastefully gowned in a simple frock is seen standing in the middle of a room holding a letter. The few accessories entered are well placed and subtly handled.

ROTARY CLUB

The Newton Rotary Club held its usual weekly meeting at the Norumbega Park Restaurant on Monday noon when, following the customary weekly luncheon, Fred G. Howe of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company gave a talk on "The History of the Newton Division of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company."

Following Mr. Howe, Mr. Jim Sumner of the Cambridge Club gave another talk which supplemented the first, speaking of "Uninterrupted gas service under strike conditions."

Ash tray souvenirs were presented to the members by Mr. Howe.

COVERING RAVAGES OF WAR

Belgians Have Accomplished Wonders in Restoring Devastated Areas—Public Edifices Rebuilt.

By the end of the year, if building goes on with the speed it has now attained, the war wilderness of Flanders not only will have resumed its prewar aspect in point of housing accommodation, but will have modern improvements unknown in 1914.

Motoring through the historic battleground today one is impressed by the capacity of production of the Belgian people. Shell-choked wastes have given place to productive pastures and extensive vegetable gardens. Shattered walls have been replaced by comfortable farm houses. Men and women are gathering sustenance from fields which were the theater of armies.

Almost 75,000 private dwellings out of 100,000 destroyed or damaged have been built, and most of these are occupied by their former inhabitants. Only ninety of the destroyed or damaged public buildings of Flanders remain unrepaired. The reconstruction of private houses has entailed an expense of 685,000,000 francs. The public edifices have cost 125,000,000 francs to rebuild. Most of this work has been done by the government through its special reconstruction department, the Devastated Regions office.

The son of a Boston lawyer at the end of his first term in college exulted in the fact that he stood next to the head of his class.

"What! Next to the head?" exclaimed his father. "What do you mean, sir? I'd like to know what you think I send you to college for! Next to the head, indeed! I'd like to know why you aren't at the head, where you ought to be."

The young man, naturally crestfallen, worked so hard on his return to college that the end of the term found him in the coveted place. He went home very proud, indeed.

The lawyer contemplated his son for a few moments in silence; then, with a shrug of his shoulders, remarked:

"At the head of the class, eh? Humph! That's a fine commentary on Harvard university!"—Harper's Magazine.

Peruvian Petroleum.

Efforts are being made to develop more extensively the petroleum resources of Peru. The known deposits of oil occur on a very narrow strip of land between the foothills of the Andes and the shore of the Pacific, and much of this is flooded at high tide. Piles of railroad iron driven in the pure ocean sand, which varies in depth from five to fifty feet, are used as foundations for the derricks. The shallowest of the driven wells is 180 feet, and the deepest 1,700 feet in depth. There is very little gas, and the oil is very heavy, so that it can be put into buckets with shovels, and it is carried direct to the furnaces to serve as fuel.

Mango in Porto Rico.

It is reported that the climate of Porto Rico is favorable for the cultivation of what has sometimes been called the finest of tropical fruits, the mango. But although mangoes abound in the island they are seedling trees, and the fruit is inferior to that of the famous Bombay mango, which is a grafted tree. It is believed that fine mangoes could be grown in abundance in Porto Rico by importing the best grafts, and that the industry can be developed into an important one as soon as the excellence of the fruit becomes known in the United States.

Looking for Oil in Spain.

It appears that there are at present eight companies engaged in exploration for oil in the Bilbao district, according to information published by the official chamber of mines at Bilbao. The denouncements of these companies in the Spanish Basque provinces alone of the Bilbao district cover many thousand acres of lands which have been favorably reported upon by the companies' geologists. A number of borings have been made which have given favorable indications, but no results of a definite character have as yet been achieved.

Frog Farming.

From his backyard frog ranch near Oshkosh, Wis., Emil Neuenfeldt ships 2,000,000 frog legs a year. The frogs are kept in concrete trenches 50 feet long and 6 feet wide, in which are refrigerated pipes and running water. The cold water makes the frogs hibernant and silences the frog chorus. When an order is received the required number is scooped from a trench and the frogs are placed in a tank of water charged with electricity. This kills the frogs, straightens out their legs and makes amputation easy.

Know All About It.

William had become the proud owner of a pig, and insisted upon having all the care of it. After a few weeks, as the pig did not seem to thrive, his father said to him:

"William, I'm afraid you are not feeding your pig enough. It doesn't seem to be fattening at all."

"I don't want to fatten him yet," answered the young stockman. "I'm waiting till he gets as long as I want, then I'll begin to widen him out."

HAD THE SNAKE HYPNOTIZED

South African Native Surely Exercised Some Kind of Influence Over Big Python.

Many powers are said to be possessed by the African native which the Occident find it hard to credit. Here is a story of "Muti," or hypnosis, as performed, according to a reliable informant, upon a huge python. The narrator says:

"I was in the veld when the herd boy, very excited, came to me with the story of a big inyoka, 'quite near.' I saddled up, took the shotgun, and went back with him. After covering some 200 yards, I asked where the snake was. 'Quite near, baas,' we covered a mile, which meant that the herd boy must have left the snake quite a time, possibly half an hour. I pulled up. 'The snake won't be where you saw it last, it's no good my going farther.' 'Yes, baas, come, it is there.' 'How do you know?' 'I made him stay fast, baas—I put muti on him.' So we went on, and, quite two miles from where I had started, the boy pointed up a small valley. 'He is there, baas,' and sure enough there was a python lying straight out on the grass and quite still. I shot it, and then turned to the boy: 'Now tell me why did the snake remain like this?' The boy picked up a twig from a bush, ran it between his lips, and stuck it in the ground an inch from the snake's nose. 'I do so, baas, and the inyoka, he lay still. He no move.'"

The reptile remained with its eyes fixed cross-wise on the small twig before its nose. The distance from the stable was quite two miles, so that the python must have been staring at the twig for a full hour before the farmer reached it.

FOND OF ODD ORNAMENTS

Savages of New Guinea May Be Picturesque, but Their Society Has Its Drawbacks.

The Kaja Kaja savages of New Guinea, who have a reputation for bravery and are powerfully built, paint their foreheads red or black with white circles around the eyes. Their nostrils are frequently adorned with the claws of birds of prey or the tusks of wild pigs. From the lobes of their ears the most extraordinary variety of objects may be suspended. M. Neyens describes one warrior who proudly wore an old coffee pot as an ear ornament. The bodies of the natives are usually tattooed with figures in relief. The tattooing necessitates a painful operation in which the patient, stretched on the sand, is literally basted with a sharp bamboo instrument, after which the numerous slashes are filled with a sort of clay.

The Kaja Kaja never bathe; instead, the body is rubbed with a variety of oils which give off an insupportable odor, augmented, it may be added, by the decomposing skins which they wear as arm decorations.

Flowers That Are Weather Prophets.

We hear a good deal of birds and animals as weather prophets, but are apt to overlook the wonderful little barometers which grow at our feet in the fields.

What does daisy mean? Nothing but "day's eye." The daisy opens wide for a fine day, but when rain is coming wraps up its center and protects it by means of folding strylike outer petals over the central, tubular florets.

The dandelion has a similar habit. Best known of all such prophetic plants is the scarlet pimpernel, the "poor man's weather glass," which is really a capital barometer. If it opens wide in the morning, you can safely bet against rain before night. When chickweed flowers are fully open, you are safe from rain for many hours, but when on a seemingly fair morning the tiny blooms are slow to disclose themselves, then it will rain before sundown.

"Bird of Passage."

The earliest use of the term "bird of passage" is found in eighteenth book of the Natural History of Pliny the Elder (23-27 A. D.), where he says: "The bird of passage known to us as the cuckoo," and the term has since been applied to birds which migrate with a season from a colder to a warmer, or from a warmer to a colder climate, divided into summer birds of passage and winter birds of passage. Such birds always breed in the country to which they resort in summer, that is, in the colder of their homes. The term is said to have been first applied to sailors by Bacon, who declared that the uncertainty, the instability and fluctuating stage of human life was most aptly represented by those sailing the ocean.—Exchange.

Curious Chinese "Copy Book."

A curious kind of copy book is used by Chinese children. The ideographs are so complicated that a youngster cannot copy them freehand, but must begin by tracing them from a model, as American children trace maps. An ordinary copy book such as is used in the lower grades has no space for the children to write. The pages are entirely covered with copy. Eight characters are generally shown on one page, each in a square, and each made about ten times the size of ordinary writing.

Over this copy is placed tracing paper and the character is drawn as accurately as possible.

The books are written in black and corrected in red ink by the schoolmasters.

FINE SENSE OF PSYCHOLOGY

David Surely Will Have to Be Credited With a Deep Knowledge of Human Nature.

An Indianapolis woman tells the following story:

"The family was spending the summer in Brown county in the most wonderful log cabin. The immense, rough-hewn logs told of pioneer days and even now the spirit of dreams and of rest pervaded the place. From early morning till early evening hundreds of birds took turns in singing of the wild loveliness.

"The sheer beauty of it so charmed us that we were oblivious to the crudity of our practical makeshifts and settled down to living as we found it.

"One of our findings was that the bathing facilities, although adequate, were primitive. A galvanized iron tub stood in a corner of the immense porch, quite sheltered by the woods and an end of the cabin, but not so well protected from family intrusion. A bath was a game of catch-as-catch-can.

"David had arisen very early, filled his tub from the kitchen pump and was enjoying a relaxed sense of security, when he heard the gentle thud, thud, on the stairs above, which could mean none other than the footsteps of his six-year-old sister. We believe David is destined to become a leader of men. Nothing but a deep understanding of human reactions could have inspired him. Raising his voice to the n'th power he called out: 'Don't look! Don't look! And don't look to see why not!'"

HONOR RESTORED TO FAMILY

Earl of Mar and Kellie Allowed to Resume Office Which His Ancestor Had Forfeited.

After a lapse of 208 years, the office of hereditary keeper of Stirling castle, the ancient residence of the Stuart kings, has been restored by King George to the earl of Mar and Kellie. This office was conferred on an ancestor of the present earl in the year 1370 and held by the family, with one break, until 1715. The then earl took sides with the Stuarts and, being defeated at Sheriffmuir, was deprived of his title.

At the ceremony of restoration the earl presented his royal warrant of office to the military commander of the castle, and received in return the key on a red velvet cushion. Taking over the key, the earl said that King George had forgiven the act which had deprived the Erskine family of an honor highly prized by it, and which had now been restored.—Christian Science Monitor.

"Bat-Wing" Airplane.

Builders of the "bat-wing" airplane designed the craft to overcome the resistance of struts, wires and fuselage that in the usual type of machine consume almost three-quarters of the engine power. The improved design is a great double-chambered aerofoil that terminates at right and left in the conventional ailerons and that tapers in the rear to a tail that has the usual elevator and rudder. The aerofoil measures 100 feet from tip to tip and swells in the front to a thickness of seven feet. In that bulge is a cabin 30 feet long, eight feet wide and six feet in height. This plane is an internally trussed cantilever structure covered with wood veneer so tough that the wing surfaces can be walked upon.—Washington Star.

Malays Emerging.

In the past it has been a customary and true thing to say of the Malays that they took very little interest in local politics or questions of government. The same thing might have been said with similar truth of India—speaking generally—twenty-five years ago. But just as public opinion in India has of late exercised itself a great deal with public affairs and has shown an intention of viewing those affairs through the spectacles of western theories and teaching, so, in a small degree, we think we can discern the growth or a similar disposition among the Malays.—Singapore Free Press.

Understanding Dimmed.

An intoxicated man was ejected from a downtown motion picture show. The manager accompanied him to the door.

"Don't you ever come into this theater again in this condition," the manager said.

The intoxicated man looked at the ground in a puzzled, yet reflective way, and then asked, hesitatingly:

"Which condition?"—Indianapolis News.

Yellowstone Park Wolves.

Game losses in Yellowstone National park through killings by predatory animals reached a new low record last winter, according to the Department of the Interior. Special efforts were made by the park ranger force to destroy predatory animals, such as the mountain lion, coyote and wolf, with the result that 221 coyotes and 8 wolves were accounted for up to last May.

Walk Underground.

An underground moving pathway for Paris is the subject of investigation in that city. Thirteen plans were submitted and five were retained for further experiments. Of these, four work on the principle of parallel hands working at graduating speeds, and the remaining one slows down for each stop.—Scientific American.

POLICE NOTES

Robert W. Lewis, a mechanic, living at 628 Boylston street, Newton Centre, was arrested last Friday morning on the charge of impersonating a Government officer in the city of Boston by Deputy United States Marshall Christopher Ghiloni and Frank Shay of the Department of Justice and Sergeant Bannan and Patrolman McLaughlin of the Newton police. He was taken to Boston after being booked at Newton Police Headquarters and will be arraigned in the Federal Court.

Herbert S. Potter of 1164 Boylston street, Brookline, was in the Newton Court last Friday morning on the charge of failing to stop when signaled to do so and of operating an automobile without the registration, before Judge Allen. He was fined $25 on the first charge and $10 on the second. He paid both fines.

Eight of the 11 boys, all less than 16, in the Newton District Juvenile Court last Friday morning, charged with breaking and entering and larceny in four houses, a school and three stores, had their cases continued by Judge Allen until Feb. 16, 1924, and were placed on probation. The other three cases were continued. These three had court records. The goods stolen by the boys, who made their headquarters in a hut behind a garage off Elmwood street, are valued at about $1500. All but a few pieces of jewelry were recovered by Inspectors Conroy and Shaughnessy, and Patrolman Feeley. The breaks were made at intervals of about two days from July 23 until Aug. 8, and while the majority of the houses were ransacked pointed to the fact that the jobs were done by amateurs the police had a hard time catching them. Three of the 11 were caught two weeks ago after they had been followed by police from Newton to Revere Beach and then back to the boys' headquarters.

As Miss Edith Stahleker of 1430 Beacon street, Waban, was driving her father's car through Nonantum Wednesday morning about 10.30 o'clock 3-year-old Laurence Babbins of 304 Watertown street, Nonantum, stepped from the sidewalk in front of the machine and was run over.

PLAYGROUND FESTIVAL

Over 4,000 People Witness the Annual Festival at the Newton Centre Playground

The annual Playground Festival of all the playgrounds of Newton was held Wednesday afternoon, instead of Tuesday, the date first set for it. A large crowd of about 4000 people were present, over 2000 of this number were children. The Festival was undoubtedly the most picturesque held so far, and at times, during certain numbers, the ensemble was most beautiful and artistic. Many of the older people, who had been present at most all of the field days, remarked on the splendid improvements that had been made in different activities. The Playground Commissioners who were present, spoke well for the future happiness and health of our youngsters. The program was followed in clock-like order as follows:

1. Opening Ceremony
2. Salute to the Flag
3. Singing "America"
4. Snatch the Bean Bag
5. Elimination Tournament
6. Dodge Ball Tournament
7. Stilt Race
8. Folk Dance
9. "Little Playmates"
10. Potato Race
11. Four Classes
12. First Ball Tournament
13. Judging of Hand-made articles
14. Folk Dances
15. (a) "Pop Goes the Weasel"
16. (b) "Schottische"
17. (c) "Circle Dance"
18. Relay Flag Races
19. Folk Dances
20. "Norwegian Mountain March"
21. "Russian Dance"

12. Rope Quoit Relay Races
13. Competition Dance
14. Solo Dances
15. Scarf Dance
16. Distribution of Prizes
17. Song

"Star Spangled Banner"

The opening ceremony of the "Salute to the Flag" and the singing of "America" was really impressive. Some of the folk dances, as "Pop Goes the Weasel" and the "Scarf Dance" were executed with fine precision, sometimes 50 children taking part at one time. At the close of the field day, Mr. Charles F. Johnson, a member of the Playground Commission since it was first established, addressed the children and the visitors. He expressed his appreciation of all the work done, and the many improvements made, and pointed to the lesson that it would all lead to a finer type of sportsmanship and to more practical and intensive patriotism.

The afternoon closed with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

NEWTON ROTARY CLUB

The Newton Rotary Club concluded its summer meetings at Norumbega Park on Monday of this week, with one of the best attended and most interesting sessions of the entire series. James B. Thresher, the well-known Boston entertainer, was the speaker, and for the first time since the origin of the club, the time of closing was extended to permit the members to enjoy to the utmost the delightful French-Canadian dialect stories and readings offered by Mr. Thresher.

Several of the members were accompanied by guests, while the visiting Rotarians were Harrie C. Farnsworth of the Boston Club and M. M. Thornberg of the Stoneham Club. Among the guests was John McKnight of Minneapolis, a guest of Rotarian John P. Harvell of the local district telephone organization. Mr. McKnight entertained those present for a few minutes with impressions of Magnus Johnson, the former politician recently elected to represent his state in the United States Senate.

The business meeting was brief and routine in character, President William T. Halliday presiding. The luncheon was one of the best of the many good ones enjoyed by the club during the summer at the Norumbega Restaurant, those present uniting in a rising vote of thanks to Manager Charles H. Osgood at the conclusion of the meeting, and to Rotarian Harry H. Hanson, chairman of the committee which made arrangements for the summer meetings. Because of the holiday on next Monday, the club meeting will be held on Tuesday, September 4. It is expected that the meetings will be resumed at the Newton Club on that date.

TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Rev. Paul S. Phalen, Mrs. Phalen, Sanford Bates, Miss Edith B. Wadsworth and Miss Emma M. Newhall of the First Unitarian Church, West Newton; Rev. Chester A. Drummond, Mrs. Drummond, Oliver M. Fisher, Frank H. Burt, Miss Grace M. Burt, Philip H. Burt, Mrs. Ellen E. Speer and Miss Jessie M. Fisher of Channing Church; Rev. George L. Parker, Dr. Sidney C. Dalrymple and Miss Pauline Chellis of the Newton Centre Unitarian Church, will attend the thirtieth biennial meeting of the General Unitarian Conference, to be held in New Haven, Conn., September 11-16, as the guests of Yale, the university having the co-operation of city and civic officials.

More than 600 reservations have been made, in response to the call of the president of the Conference, Chief Justice Taft, thus insuring the largest attendance of recent years. In conjunction with the meetings of the Conference the Unitarian Laymen's League has provided a program for its fourth annual Ministers' Institute and is calling the presidents of its 289 chapters to the third annual convention.

The list of speakers obtained for the combined New Haven meetings offers rare variety to the delegates. It includes George W. Wickersham, formerly Attorney General of the United States; Paul M. Warburg, who was appointed a member of the United States Section of the International High Commission; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, best known suffragist of the present day; Bishop Francis J. McConnell of Pittsburgh, a leader in the Methodist Episcopal Church; Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the United States Children's Bureau; Dr. Richard

FRANK A. DAY CAMP

Closes a Most Successful Season with a Field Day

With the farewell of one hundred and twenty-one boys and leaders echoing through the pines, the 1923 season of Camp Frank A. Day came to a close last Friday morning, August 24th. Tanned and invigorated by their summer in the open, every boy and leader departed with memories of the best season in the eight years' history of Camp Day.

Commencing the season under the most favorable weather conditions, the camp program progressed with its regular games, swimming, hikes, and trips, until the time arrived for the Annual Circus. This mid-season event was staged under the direction of "Jake" Stafford of Newton, High School football fame, and included everything from a side-show which rivalled the Combined Barnum & Bailey, Ringling Bros. Circus, to a first class acrobatic and tumbling act in which Clyde G. Hess, next year's director of Camp Day, was the star. On the evening of Circus Day the visiting parents and friends were entertained by a two act play, "On the Quiet," which was one of the outstanding dramatic events of the season.

During the second month of camp Mr. Hess and Mr. William Phelps of Newtonville took fourteen of the older campers on a four day hike to Camp Becket and Williamstown, Mass. This trip was the most successful of the season, due to the inspiring leadership of Messrs. Hess and Phelps and the excellent spirit of co-operation exhibited by the hikers. Other trips of the season included hikes to Mt. Dan and Walker Mountain, Alum Pond, and two thirty-five mile hikes into the surrounding country. In addition to these hikes, canoe trips were sent to Lakes Wickaboag, Quabog, and Archer.

At the end of the seventh week in camp came the annual Field Day, when scores of parents and friends enjoyed the tennis finals, the track and field meet, and in the evening, the minstrel show and play. Frank Spain of Waban defeated Hayward Woolston from the same section of the city, in the senior tennis finals, while William Clark of Newtonville defeated Fred Schipper of Newtonville in the junior finals. The track, swimming, and canoe events of the afternoon were preceded by a pajama drill in front of the tents, when visitors had an opportunity to see the program which the camp went through before breakfast every morning, while the afternoon was concluded with the swimming events, results of which are appended below. The visitors still had the annual Minstrel Show yet to enjoy.

Immediately following supper, "Jake" Stafford brought forth his darky cohorts and the pavilion rang with song and laughter. But the minstrel show was not all that "Jake" had in store. When the curtain again went up it was to reveal a hunting lodge in the woods, while the audience was thrilled for three quarters of an hour by "The Thief in the House." L. S. Moore, Edward Kent, and "Jake" Stafford, all of Newton; William Richards of Stoneham, and Horace Preble of Needham, starred in the production.

ard C. Cabot, professor of medicine in Harvard Medical School; Herbert C. Parsons, Massachusetts Commissioner of Probation; Dean Charles R. Brown of Yale Divinity School; Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch College; Rev. William H. Drummond of London, secretary of the International Congress of Free Christians; Rev.

Vivian T. Pomeroy of Bradford, England; Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, president of the American Unitarian Association; Dr. William P. Shriver of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions; and Rev. Horace J. Bridges, leader of the Chicago Ethical Society. In addition to the meetings of the Unitarian Ministerial Union and the Unitarian Temperance Society, sessions will be devoted to "Religion and Youth," "The Free Faith in the World," "The Church and International Relations," "What the Church Can Do for New Americans," "The Church and Social Problems," "The Minister and the Physician," and "The Church and the Labor Movement."

The most important single item of business which the General Conference will consider concerns the report of a commission of its own creation, which will recommend that the Conference be merged in the American Unitarian Association. If this merger is effected, the General Conference will cease to exist in 1925, when the Association will have completed an even hundred years of faithful and effective service in disseminating the principles of pure Christianity, in promoting sympathy among religious liberals, and in inspiring and directing educational, philanthropic, and missionary endeavors. The American Unitarian Association, organized as a society of individuals, is still such to a large extent. The commission of the General Conference bases its recommendations on a reorganization program looking to the making of the American Unitarian Association into a society of churches, more closely knit together in recognition of the value of a democratic centralization that is quite foreign to the traditional congregational polity of Unitarian churches.

The convention of the Laymen's League will continue along the original lines, suggested by the example of big business corporations which assemble their leaders periodically for consultation and fellowship. Every activity of the church in which laymen can be of service will be considered, and ways and means devised to enlist every one of the 12,282 members of the Unitarian Laymen's League in some form of church activity.

BAND CONCERT

Calderwood's Band will give a band concert next Sunday afternoon from 3.30 to 5.30 at the Riverside Recreation Grounds.

NEED FOR A "MOTHERS' UNION"

Editor of the Graphic,

Dear Sir:—

In some hundreds of Newton homes to-day there is unhappy friction between mothers and daughters. This is in view of the return of the daughters to school in a few days. Hundreds of daughters have left the table in tears because mother will not permit them to "put their hair up" at fourteen, or wear silk stockings at school, or invest in the stylish garments of women of forty. In all these homes the same conversation practically is taking place, ending with the statement of the daughter: "They all are doing it! Mother, I'll be the only one with my hair down!" It is true that the tendency of the day is to eliminate girlhood, to jump from babyhood to the blasé, and it is getting harder to tell which is the baby and which is the nurse, both are so enveloped in a cloud of bon-ami powder and deck-paint.

The truth is that girls are usually doomed to pass through an insane stage about fourteen and every mother is left to fight it out alone with "they" are all doing it" upon the other side. My modest proposal is for a "Union of Mothers" which would be a help of those of us who cannot afford to buy silk school-stockings for our daughters, a union which would determine that no girl should wear her hair "up" till after Christmas in her sophomore year at least, that all expensive boy-killing clothes be barred at school, that no dances or entertainments should be allowed except on Friday and Saturday nights, that all such should end at eleven o'clock, that that school-girl complexion should be one spot in the universe not included in the statement that "Blank's Paints Cover the World," and a few other such conversations of girlhood. Then the poor mother would not be left at the mercy of every other foolish parent but could answer her daughter's objections with the counter-statement that "all mothers are doing it!"

I am, Sir,

Yours hopefully,
YOUNG TOO.

POLICE COURT

Horace E. Bailey, of Centre street, Newton, was fined $125 Saturday morning in Newton District Court by Judge Allen for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. A charge of being drunk was filed. Bailey was arrested in Newton by Patrolman Keating.

Patrick J. McPhee, Waltham street, Watertown, was in the Newton Court Monday morning charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was sentenced to one month in the House of Correction and for being drunk was given a suspended sentence until February. He was also charged with driving an automobile without a license, for which he was fined $50. He was fined another $50 for driving a car after his right to drive was taken from him.

ST. JAMES THEATRE—Next week, for the first time on any stage, the Boston Stock Company will be seen in a new comedy drama, "Alias Nora O'Brien" by Marion Short and Lynn Osborne. The heroine, Nora, is none other than Lady Connie of Donoughmore, a titled Irish personage with a fortune. To help a friend of hers who is the proprietress of a country club headed for bankruptcy, Nora drops her titled identity and comes to America as a waitress. In less than no time this charming colleen, with the bit of a brogue, has made a mess of things. Her chauffeur, disguised as an English lord, a real English nobleman, a bootlegger, an inventor and a young blackguard, get mixed up in Nora's plans until she wishes that she had stayed in Ireland and let the country club go hang. A romance develops with additional complications. Miss Bushnell will be seen as Nora, supported by Mr. Gilbert and the full strength of the company. Staged by Mr. Godfrey, with some startling settings by Clarence Hanson, it should prove a remarkable offering.

A tip to drivers— and pedestrians too

By THE VETERAN MOTORIST

I SUPPOSE it's because I've driven around so much in the last fifteen years that I've seen about twice as many accidents as the average motorist. Can't begin to remember them all, but I know a lot were connected with passing trolleys.

One special reason for this lies in the different rules and regulations that prevail in different localities. In some places you may not pass a standing trolley at all, and there the pedestrian crossing the street should be perfectly safe from automobiles, so long as the trolley remains standing. In other places motors may pass a standing trolley "with due care" or "not less than" six or eight feet away; in these cases both driver and pedestrian ought to watch their going mighty carefully.

My best advice is to keep up to date on your own local rules about passing trolleys, etc., and follow them scrupulously. When you are away from home, and may not know all the local provisions, abide by the strictest rules for safety that you do know.

GOOD ADVICE

In view of the fact that many things which are lost, are never found, and that someone has to pay for every lost article, I wish that everyone who finds anything would remember to report the same to the nearest police station. In almost every business requiring delivery one is likely to lose a box, basket or any other container. There are always bad hills or ruts which jar the wagon or truck, and unknown to the driver, something for which he is responsible is lost. Even if it is advertised, it might not meet the eye of the loser; but I think nearly everyone who loses anything reports the loss to the police station. If this could become a "habit" it would save many a man much anxiety and money that is much needed for the necessities of life.

AUTO ACCIDENT

Frederick Leslie, aged 10, of 29 Mill street, Newtonville was seriously injured Wednesday noon when he was struck by an auto operated by Miss Elizabeth Walker of 20 Hereford road, Waban, on Commonwealth avenue, near Irving street, Newton Centre.

He was taken by a passing auto to the Newton Hospital. He received a cut on his head and other injuries.

CITY HALL NOTES

Dr. Francis G. Curtis is still in New York where he was called by the death of his mother, Mrs. George William Curtis.

GOOD PITCHING

Eleven strikeouts in a game to the credit of a pitcher means some twirler on the mound, but when that pitcher is of the weaker sex she is a phenomenon. Newton Centre boasts of a girl star pitcher, Clara Smith, a 16-year old telephone operator, who has pitched five games this year for the Newton Centre Playground girls' team, and won them all. In a recent game with the Waltham Girl All-Stars Newton Centre won, 3 to 0, and 11 of the Waltham players fanned the breezes before Clara's curves.

Miss Smith has been playing ball on the Newton Centre Playground ever since she was old enough to toddle up to the field from her home on Cummings road, Newton Centre. Her brother, Jimmie, has played at short for the past four years for the Algonquin A. C. of Newton Centre, and the ability to handle the horsehide seems to run in the family.

Last year when Lizzie Murphy first came into prominence, playing at first base with a team of men and later Millie Hill of South Boston took her place on the field with a boys' nine from the peninsula, the Crystal A. C. of Newton Centre, a team of boys whose ages average 16 signed Clara up and in a Crystal A. C. uniform she overtook the initial sack for the latter part of the summer. This year a girls' team was formed on the playground and Clara stepped into the box.

She handles the stick well and even against the swift pitching of the teams that played the Crystals she managed to maintain a fair batting average. She throws a fast ball, with a free overarm motion, not in the least feminine, and the championship of the Newton playgrounds for Newton Centre is assured now.

Equally as good a ball player is Clara's battery mate, Annie Burns, who has as good a throwing arm as Clara and stands up behind the plate with chest protector, mask and mitt like Hank Gowdy. The pair are unbeatable and it is the belief of the playground instructors in Newton that there is not another combination that can compare with them in Greater Boston.—Boston Globe.

EDITORIAL

While there is considerable talk about traffic regulations there seems to be very little action. We know of one reputable merchant in Nonantum square, whose place of business is kept open in the evening, who has to submit to the parking of private cars right opposite his door for hours at a time, while his customers have to do the best they can to reach his store. We also notice that while there are plenty of white lines on the street, very little attention is paid to them and automobiles are often seen parked right across a supposedly exempt path across the street.

Attention is invited to the request for reminiscences of the old English and Classical school kept for many years at West Newton by Mr. Nathaniel T. Allen and his brothers. Dr. Chalmers will be glad to hear from anyone on this line.

The proposed memorial for the boys from Newton who gave their lives during the World's War, seems to have disappeared from the thoughts and minds of our city fathers.

And the billboards are still with us.

Many innovations will be introduced and a splendid time is assured for all who come.

PLEDGE OF GOOD FAITH

A responsible man puts his name to a piece of paper and it becomes a check—the equivalent of money.

He signs his name on the back of another piece of paper and it becomes an indorsed note—good for money.

He writes a letter and it becomes a binding contract.

The adding of the name makes these things solemn and legal obligations.

The man who signs is responsible. Just so with an advertisement—the moment a man signs his name to it he has made a pledge to the public.

He is bound by his word as much as if he signed a check or a note. He must do what he promised on the terms he promised.

If he does not, he courts business disaster. The man who advertises a lie publicly proclaims himself a liar. Such men are seldom in business but frequently in asylums.

It is safer to buy advertised articles than nondescript ones. It is safer to deal with merchants who advertise than with those who do not.

An advertisement is a signed pledge of good faith to the public.

—Exchange.

AN EXCEPTIONAL WOMAN

As the result of an operation soon after her arrival in England in June as a delegate to the Dickens fellowship, Kate Douglas Wiggin, an author of international reputation, died Friday, August 24th, at Harrow, England. She was born in Philadelphia, Sept. 28, 1857, the daughter of Robert N. Smith, a lawyer, and was educated in the common schools and at Abbott Academy, Andover. In 1906 she was awarded the honorary degree of Litt.D. at Bowdoin College, an honor then given to only one other woman, Sarah Orne Jewett.

In 1880 she married Samuel B. Wiggin, a lawyer in San Francisco, whither she had gone as a young girl to pursue kindergarten study. He died in 1889, and in 1895 she married Geo. C. Riggs. Since that time she has made her home in New York City and at "Quillcote," Hollis, Me., where she did much of her writing. She was also a frequent visitor to England.

While her witty tales charmed old and young alike by their naive simplicity and gentle humor, it is perhaps not so generally known that she was a pioneer in kindergarten work and no mean authority on the theory and method of this branch of child training. It is significant that a short serial, "Half-a-Dozen Housekeepers," the first literary publication of this gifted woman who wrote so charmingly and understandingly of and for children appeared in 1878, the year she and her sister, Nora Archibald Smith, established at San Francisco the first free kindergarten for poor children on the Pacific Coast. In 1880 they organized the California Kindergarten training school, and at just about this time Mrs. Wiggin published her second book, a juvenile tale, "The Story of Patsy," from the proceeds of which she obtained funds to carry on her kindergarten work. Her interpretation of the child point of view in her literary work was no doubt influenced by her kindergarten experience. She and her sister were joint authors of several books on kindergarten work and together wrote or edited a considerable number of collections of delightful stories and verse for children.

In addition to her literary and pedagogic skill, she was a musician of ability, composing music as well as words for several songs.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," published in 1903, is perhaps her most popular book. In 1908 she rewrote this as a play which attained equal success on the stage, a screen version of which has been among the popular film productions. This tale and others of Mrs. Wiggin's books have been translated into foreign languages and have attained the same popularity which they enjoy among us. Her last literary work, completed a short time ago, will appear this Fall under the title, "My Garden of Memories."

Among her other books are the following, which may be found in the Newton Free Library:

Half-a-Dozen Housekeepers.
Birds' Christmas Carol.
Timothy's Quest.
Marm Lisa.
Cathedral Courtship and Penelope's Experiences in England, Ireland, and Scotland.

WESTCOTT-TEMPLE

On Saturday evening, August 25th, at the home of the groom 4 Jewett street, Newton, Miss Mary Louise Temple was married to Karl E. Westcott. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. O. J. White of the Belmont Baptist Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Joseph K. Temple. Miss Dorothy Horne of Watertown was the bridesmaid and the best man was Raymond Westcott, brother of the groom. Marjorie Boullen was flower girl and the ushers were Lincoln Watt and Edward Morris, all of Watertown.

The bride was gowned in white beaded georgette with tulle veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bride roses and valley lilies. The bridesmaid wore blue satin and carried pink roses.

A reception followed the ceremony at which Mr. and Mrs. Westcott were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Temple, parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Westcott, the groom's parents.

There were about one hundred and fifty guests present from Watertown, Belmont, Malden and the Newtons. After a wedding trip to Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Westcott will live at Beach street, Belmont, and will be at home to their friends after Sept. 25th.

GOOD WORK BY POLICE

After a relay pursuit by Patrolmen John Green and Foley at 8 o'clock last night, Alphonse M. Horan of 307 Audubon road, Brookline, was arrested by Patrolman Foley on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was over taken at Auburn street in Auburndale after a chase of a mile and a half.

MANY GUESTS PRESENT

Woman's Relief Corps Day on Wednesday at the Gov. John A. Andrew Home at 92 Washington Park, Newtonville, attracted 400 guests from many parts of the Bay State. They brought refreshments and many generous donations to the home, which were most acceptable to Mrs. Lue Stuart Wadsworth, the president of the Home Association, who is bending every effort to give comfort and the best of care to the 14 widows of Grand Army veterans and one comrade and his wife under her care.

Corps represented by the visitors were 10 of Chelsea, 174 of Framingham, 79 of Brighton, 109 of Brookline, 72 of Milford, 15 of Ashland, 60 of Hingham, 63 of Roxbury, 102 of Weymouth, 104 of Dedham, 25 of Waltham, 19 of Amesbury, 9 of Charlestown, 28 of Boston, 27 of Cambridgeport, 170 of East Bridgewater, 35 of Hyde Park, 121 of Scituate and Pembroke Corps, Hanson.

During the afternoon Mrs. Alice Wentworth of Needham entertained the people of the home and guests with many amusing readings, and the only comrade living there, J. B. Sulham, also gave readings.

Special guests were Department President Susan D. Phinney of Bourne, Department Counselor Carrie F. Loring, Past Department President and Assistant Gen. Gen. Wilfred A. Wetherbee of the G. A. R., accompanied by his wife.

Visitors from the various corps furnished music during the day and in visiting among the members of the home family left many pleasant memories behind them, which will linger in the minds of the aged folks for a long time.

The program was carried on out of doors upon the spacious lawn surrounding the home.

STRIKE THREATENED

Unless the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company takes definite action before 6 o'clock tonight to arrange arbitration of differences with its employees, a strike is threatened on the line which will tie up trolley traffic in Waltham, Watertown, Newton, Natick, Framingham, and Lexington, and this tie-up will occur over the crowded Labor Day week-end.

The day force of the Carmen's Union held a meeting last night and voted to strike unless before 6 o'clock tonight Pitt F. Drew, attorney for the lines, meets James H. Vahey, attorney for the carmen, and a third arbitrator is chosen.

Significant Silence.

You never hear the man who is lucky saying anything about the proverbial luck of the fool.—Boston Evening Transcript

THE ALLEN SCHOOL

Dr. Thomas Chalmers of the Allen-Chalmers school, of West Newton, the successor of the old Allen school is anxious to gather all possible reminiscences of history concerning the old English and Classical School over which Nathaniel T. Allen presided. Any incident, story, or fact will be of interest. Horace Mann moved his normal school from West Newton Square in 1853 to Framingham. There must be men and women in Newton with memories carrying back that far. In this connection Mrs. C. L. Hillery, the daughter of Mrs. N. B. Onthank, a former resident of West Newton submits the following:

Prince Smiltz of Japan with his suite came to study in the Allen School in 1872, as the first Japanese students to take instruction in America. Among the members of his suite were Baron Hayashi, later premier of Japan, and Generals Okondo and Ashayano. Baron Megata, who also studied under Nathaniel Allen at the Allen School came a few years later. These were some of the men who had particularly to do with the regeneration of the Japanese Empire, as a modern and progressive world power.

Repairing China.

By applying a little carriage varnish carefully with a camel's hair brush to the edges of broken china, the parts being neatly joined together, the fracture will, when thoroughly dry, be hardly perceptible, and the china will stand fire and water.

DANGER IN CHEWING GRASS

Habit is a Bad One, and May Result in Contraction of Unpleasant Disease.

Many people have been startled recently by the announcement that it is dangerous to chew grass.

A well-known athlete has been undergoing medical treatment for several months, and has had two operations on a mysterious swelling in a gland.

The disease is called actinomycosis, and is usually found in cattle, pigs, horses, and even elephants and dogs. In the case mentioned it was contracted through the habit of chewing grass while playing games, a common practice among sportsmen. In chewing grass one may consume a parasite, and there lies the danger.

Formerly this unpleasant disease was known as "wooden tongue" or "big jaw," owing to the large swellings which develop on the tongue, jaw or skin.

Actinomycosis is a chronic inflammatory disease producing pus, and is caused by a fungus, which in the case of a man attacks the jaw and neck, entering through diseased teeth or tonsils. A severe local infection is set up, which burrows its way into the tissues, distorting what it traverses and stopping at nothing unless treated in time. Bones are penetrated as easily as muscles.

HISTORIC CAPE TOWN RELIC

Stump of Old "Slave Tree" is All That Remains as Reminder of Days of Slavery.

There is an old tree in Cape Town, in Church square, over 250 years old, and all that remains of it today is the stump, to which is affixed a brass plate and an inscription, giving an outline of its history. It is a most historic landmark, as it was there before the days of Jan van Riebeck. To this tree slaves were brought and placed on tables for exhibition and sale.

The slaves were kept in the old Supreme court building, just opposite the old tree, and it is not difficult still to picture the once familiar scene.

Slavery was abolished in 1838, but the old slave tree stood and braved the storms till November 9, 1916, when it was cut down, as it was considered unsafe. The brass plate was affixed by the owner of a store which, until the tree was cut down, had always been advertised as "under the old fir tree."

Shocking the New Member.

Father is a minister and one Sunday morning while he was greeting the members of the church I asked him for the house key. He told me that it was in his coat pocket, and his coat, as I supposed, was in the basement of the church.

There I found quite a few overcoats. I examined each one, by size and color, until I came to one which looked familiar. I laid it out on a table and began searching each pocket, but, being unable to find the key, I deposited the contents of each pocket in a pile nearby. I was examining everything closely, when, alas! the door opened, disclosing a new member of the church. He gruffly asked the reason for the interference. I hurriedly explained and then fled. I have not seen him since, but I certainly do hope he does not think the minister's daughter a pickpocket.—Chicago Tribune.

Mountain Flying.

Consideration has been given to the possibility of aerial observation in the Himalayas. The range, it appears, has only six peaks above 27,000 feet high, and an aviator flying at about 23,000 or 24,000 feet should have no difficulty in crossing if the highest peaks were avoided, while if he chose certain of the gorges an altitude of some 19,000 feet would suffice. The greatest of the many obstacles to be encountered is the mountain sickness, which occurs in the highest altitudes through deficiency of oxygen. The gradual climber, going aloft, is less handicapped in this respect than the aviator rising suddenly from sea level in his machine. On the other hand, the pedestrian has more fatigue to undergo, and this practically equalizes matters.—New York Herald.

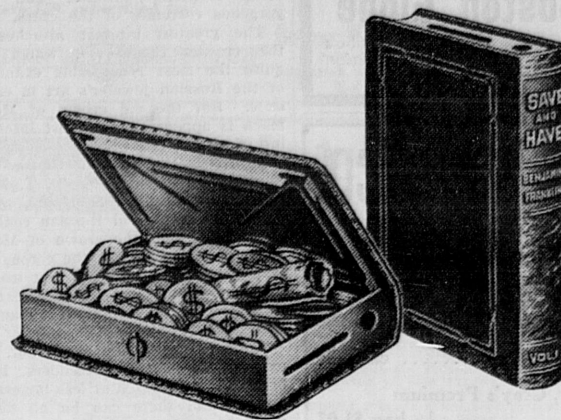

Use of Whale Meat.

Cooked perfectly in the can to a degree of tenderness unknown to devotees of the fried article, canned North Pacific whale steaks are making a hit wherever introduced. So great has been the demand for this delicious food, which has been ignored heretofore in the midst of plenty, that the pack now being prepared has long since been disposed of. According to a report just received by the Department of Commerce from Vice Consul Newcomb, Victoria, practically all the British Columbia pack will be shipped to England and there redistributed. Seldom within recent years has the whaling season opened under more promising conditions than this year. Whales are reported early and plentiful.

Grandpa Still Winner.

It was the first baby in the family and everybody wished it to look like them. Mother said with emphasis that its tiny mouth was the exact counterpart of her rather large, full mouth; father that its little button of a nose was a counterpart of his large Roman nose, and each aunt was certain that its natural complexion resembled her acquired one.

Grandpa chuckled at them all. "Well," he finally said, "there ain't nary an argument against me claiming that its toothlessness and baldness are both like mine, is there?"

CROWN OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

According to Custom and Law, it Must Be Used in the Coronation of Every Czar.

There is probably no collection of regalia in the world that can compare with that of Russia either in historic interest or financial value. It consists of a large number of crowns, orbs, scepters, thrones, and the gorgeous costumes of the czars.

The greatest interest attaches to the crowns themselves, which are quite the most remarkable examples of the Russian jeweler's art in existence. But the old crown of Monomach is apparently the most interesting of all.

An article entitled "The House With Shattered Windows," by W. T. Maxwell in the London Magazine, says: "A clause in the old Russian code of laws states that the crown of Monomach shall be used at the coronation of all the czars, and the vast majority of Russian peasants believe that whichever of the remaining Romanoffs secures it will be the next czar."

"This is perhaps an idle belief, but exiled kings and pretenders have been known to clutch at less important straws, and there can be no doubt that the removal of the crown of Monomach to the Russian pretenders' house in Paris would considerably strengthen their hands."

CHURCHES MIGHT AID ART

Suggestion Put Forward That They Encourage Creative Work for Its Own Sake.

Among all the religious denominations in America today is there not one which has enough faith in the soundness of human kind, in the professed belief that the things of the spirit ought to prevail, to risk fostering the creative arts just because they are a good in themselves? How easily might one of the great denominations with all of its existing machinery and with the employment of some special educational representatives bring together and direct unselfishly those who would enrich life by interpreting life! What an opportunity to develop a great religious drama, a great religious music, a great religious graphic or plastic art! And what an opportunity to render an even greater service by encouraging every creator to speak the highest truth within him, whatever it happened to be! Here is a definite avocation for the church that might in some degree supplant the prefatory semisocial activities that make up the weekly routine in the great body of churches in most denominations.

Scrap From the Battlefields.

The exportations of scrap metals collected on the battlefields and of old steel rails and other metal pieces used in France during the war continue through the port of Boulogne-sur-Mer. Statistics for 1922 show only an insignificant decrease in the tonnage as compared with 1921, the record year. England takes practically all of these exports. Figures obtained from the French customs authorities showing the exportation of scrap metals from Boulogne-sur-Mer in 1919 to 1922 are: Brass and copper scrap, 36 metric tons in 1919, 666 in 1920, 5,941 in 1921, and 2,951 in 1922; iron scrap, 66 metric tons in 1920, 1,693 in 1921, and 1,580 in 1922; steel scrap, 14,958 metric tons in 1920, 37,087 in 1921, and 34,569 in 1922.

"Cork Wool."
"Wool" is being manufactured from cork in Spain, and it may be substituted for natural wool in mattresses, pillows, quilts, etc., as it is cleaner and lighter than wool.

Government officials at Washington have received from the same source information relative to a Spanish process for utilizing cork as a textile material. The cork is employed in the form of very fine pellicles of which fourteen go to make the thickness of a millimeter (0.03937 inch). It is first treated with chemicals to remove any resinous substances and to make it flexible. The cork is then sewn between two cotton sheets and pressed several times.—Washington Star.

Where There's a Won't.

An old German farmer heard that his bank was on the verge of bankruptcy and hurried into town to draw out his money.

"I want my money! I want my money! Effery cent!" he almost screamed.

"Well, don't get excited; I'll get it for you," replied the clerk of that perfectly solvent institution.

"O-o-h! So? Can I have it?"

"Certainly."

"Well, den, I don't want it."—American Legion Weekly.

American Rice.

During the past two decades the development of rice culture into one of the leading industries of our Gulf states has established the fact that American rice is of a very high grade. Proof is furnished from Cuba, where rice is eaten at every meal, and where the American product has already won the reputation of being superior in richness of flavor and in nutritive quality to the rice of India, China or Japan.

Righto.

"I believe in whipping children," said the Wise Old Guy. "Spare the rod, you know."

"Yep," agreed his friend. "But say, isn't it funny how your ideas change after you put on long pants?"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

RIVETS SHOT THROUGH HOSE

Compressed Air Device Is Now Largely Taking the Place of Passing by Hand.

For years it has been the common practice to use a bucket and tongs in passing rivets by hand. This method not only has been expensive but has been accompanied by many dangers. Now we have perfected a system of distributing red-hot rivets by compressed air through a flexible metallic hose.

This new apparatus consists of a compressed air gun and storage tank. In addition to the metal hose which leads from the forge to the elevator, with this plan the forgerman draws the heated rivet from the fire, drops it into a receptacle at the end of the hose, and here the weight of the rivet opens a valve that again closes automatically. Immediately the forgerman's foot on a pedal applies the force of the compressed air, and the rivet is shot through the hose to the place where it is to be used, arriving free from scale and without any possibility of accident.

In actual practice red-hot rivets have been thus carried 125 feet in seven seconds, with an air pressure of less than four pounds. In addition to the advantage of greater safety, this method has shown a 20 per cent saving in the cost of operation.—Floyd W. Parsons in the Saturday Evening Post.

SAVED IN JUNGLE BY PLANES

Scientist's Wife, Badly Injured, Brought to the Hospital in the Nick of Time.

After an S. O. S. was flashed out over hundreds of miles of Panama jungles by the dispatch of a native runner more than seventy-five miles to the nearest telegraph station, three United States army airplanes penetrated the wilderness 320 miles and rescued Mrs. Helen T. Gaige, wife of Prof. Frederick M. Gaige of the University of Michigan. It was learned upon the arrival of the couple at New York.

Professor and Mrs. Gaige left this country last February with the intention of remaining in the jungle 18 months to study reptiles. They had gone hundreds of miles and were near the border of Costa Rica when Mrs. Gaige was wounded by an accidental discharge of her shotgun. Her husband administered first aid and dispatched a runner to a little settlement named David, about seventy-five miles away, to telegraph a request for assistance to Dr. S. J. South, American minister to Panama, in Panama City.

Professor Gaige and his party then started out to follow the runner, reaching David in three days. Meanwhile, Minister South forwarded the S. O. S. to France field, the army aviation base, and a Martin bomber and two other planes were sent out to find the party.

As It Will Be.

"Young man, have you been examined by the bureau of censors?"

"Yes, sir."

"And sterilized by the board of health?"

"Yes, sir."

"Has the X-ray revealed any traces of possible ancestral alcohol in your system?"

"Not a trace."

"Are you nicotineless?"

"One hundred per cent."

"Can you repeat all the hymns in the Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist hymn books?"

"By heart."

"Did you ever lose your temper and say 'Good gracious' or 'Fudge'?"

"Never!"

"Then, sir, come in and I will let you hold my daughter's hand for 15 minutes in my presence, and if you behave yourself in a seemly manner, tomorrow I will extend this period to 20 minutes."—Exchange.

Grand Canal of China.

The Grand canal of China is by far the longest canal in the world. It reaches from Hangchow to Tientsin, the port of Peking, and covers a distance of nearly 1,000 miles. It crosses two of the world's largest rivers, the Hwang and the Yangtze.

For about 130 miles north of the Yangtze the canal is still navigable, but from that point to Tientsin it is choked with mud and is generally derelict. A plan is now on foot to reconstruct the northern sections. For the time being only about seven million dollars can be devoted to work that will put in order a section 100 miles in length. The reconstruction is in the hands of American engineers.—Exchange.

Convenient Potato Masher.

A potato masher, devised by Dr. Richard D. Roderick of Hazleton, Pa., is of novel shape, consisting of a segment of a cylinder. Across the bottom of the masher is attached the usual mashing screen. The handle is positioned directly above this screen. As the potato masher conforms to the contour of the inner portion of the container in which the potatoes have been cooked, its shape facilitates the mashing of the potatoes within the container.

If We Didn't Have Machines.

If we removed from the earth all the power-driven machines now operating, it would be impossible to crowd onto our globe sufficient people to produce the commodities now made. If we were to revert to the old method of making wire nails by hand, this job alone would require the daily effort of more workers than are now engaged in producing all our coal.—Floyd W. Parsons in the Saturday Evening Post.

ART HAS VARIOUS EFFECTS

It Is Anything That Looks Like it to Any Person, According to This Writer.

The thing that looks art to a person who thinks that it is art, is art. There are many ways of looking at it from different angles—those of the rich and the poor, the educated and the uneducated, the child and the grownup. Art belongs to everybody who looks for it. There is not a human being who does not admire art. Art and you will be more friendly when you are at peace; when you have no trouble on your mind, no sickness in your family, nothing to worry over, then you can enjoy art. Then art will love you and you in turn will love art.

Art is very wide. Art is not only what you see with your eyes, but it is within your mind also. There are many things beside art objects in art galleries. You may find art almost anywhere, any time, if you have the eye to see it. In your home good housekeeping is art; so are harmonious decorations and the arrangement of flowers; so are cooking, eating, sleeping and dressing; so is talking; so are movements and manners—yes, so is love—there is art in all. You may find a great sculptor in the barber shop or in a tailor shop. A master hand—that is art. No matter where we find it—Mataichi Miya in the North American Review.

GOES BACK ON OWN ORDER

British Nobility Startled by Proposal of One of Themselves, to Abolish Hereditary Titles.

The introduction into the house of commons by the Hon. Arthur Bonsor of a bill to abolish hereditary titles created more of a sensation because of the social connections of its author than because of its somewhat revolutionary nature. The Hon. Arthur was at one time a page of honor to Queen Victoria, is related to many of the noble families of England and at one time took an active part in English society.

In his earlier political career he was a liberal, but has since become an important member of the labor party. His bill, although it is not the first of its kind with which the British commons has had to deal, was greeted with wild enthusiasm by labor members and great indignation by the Tory members. The Hon. Arthur declares that, although his bill may fall of passage this time, it will become a law before many years.

East Indian Irrigation Project.

Three and a half million acres of excellent farm lands, in 14,300 square miles of India's Sutlej valley, will be thrown open to settlers at the completion of the most pretentious irrigation project attempted in India. Assistant Trade Commissioner Spofford, Calcutta, informs the Department of Commerce. During the last 30 years large tracts of waste land in the Punjab have been rendered productive to crops as a result of successful irrigation works, and for the first time in such projects the Indian government is seeing the mistake in neglecting the construction of roads along with that of canals. The government is acquiring necessary road rights to insure adequate provision for the transportation of crops to markets and railways. The whole Sutlej project will probably take nine years for completion.

Facts About Dogs.

A member of the staff of the Paris Museum of Natural History has pointed out that the dog, whose respirations number only twenty-five or thirty a minute, may, in running, acquire a rate of respiration as high as 350 a minute. The effect of this acceleration favors the dissipation of animal heat by evaporation from the pulmonary vesicles.

The dog perspires very little or not at all by the skin, pulmonary taking the place of cutaneous transpiration. It is this fact that enables the dog to pursue its game so long and persistently. Animals of the cat family, on the other hand, do not possess this peculiarity, and for that reason tigers, panthers and lions lie in wait for their prey, but do not pursue it over long distances. The bird possesses pulmonary transpiration in a very high degree.

Latvia Is Not Litvia.

Latvia should not be confused with Lithuania, warns the Commerce Bureau. Since the establishment of the exchange of money orders between the United States and Latvia numerous applications for the issue of orders on Lithuania have been made, and in many cases accepted by postmasters who are misled by the fact that people sometimes designate Lithuania as Litvia, Litava, Lietava or Lieutva. While United States money orders are now paid in Latvia (also known as Letonia and Litvia), there is yet no money order convention with Lithuania.

Light-Giving Mineral.

The light of Cornwall, in England, aver that at night there may be seen there a faintly shining mineral among the rocks rejected from the mines. That this is not pure imagination on their part has been proved by scientific investigation. A specimen of the mineral autunite, which is also found in Wales, was sent to a scientific body in London for examination of its apparently luminous properties. It was found that it closely resembled artificially prepared salts of uranium, and that its luminosity was due to its spontaneous radioactivity.

THE PLYMOUTH ROCK

WHEN the Pilgrim Fathers landed from the Mayflower at Plymouth, Massachusetts, they stepped out upon a boulder which has become famous as the Plymouth Rock.

This rock is said to weigh seven tons, possess a greenish hue, to be very hard and its surface capable of taking a high polish. Oval in shape and having a flat top, it offered a made-to-order landing place for the forefathers. Scientists declare that it was undoubtedly carried by a glacier, from some strange and distant land.

Like most movable things of peculiar historic value, a loving public has been wont to disturb this valued relic and change its location. In 1774, while plans were under way to move the rock to the town square, it was discovered that the action of the elements had separated the upper and lower portions. Nevertheless, the top portion was moved. In 1834—60 years later—it was again moved, this time to a location in front of Pilgrim Hall and inclosed with an iron fence. Here it remained for forty-six years. Then it was decided that the rock should be returned to its original location. Accordingly, after a separation of more than one hundred years, the upper portion of the rock was carefully placed over the lower portion, where it now reposes under an ornate canopy.

Here, this treasured shrine, to which come visitors from every clime, shall undoubtedly remain for all time, looking much the same as when its side was first grazed by the good ship Mayflower.

DON'T EXPERIMENT. GET THE BEST

PROPOSED NEW PAROCHIAL SCHOOL FOR THE CHURCH OF ST. JOHN THE EVANGELIST, WATERTOWN STREET, NORANTUM.

The Reverend Joseph E. Robichaud, pastor of the French church of St. John the Evangelist, has received permission from Cardinal O'Connell to erect a new parochial school on the church property on Watertown street. The new building will be built from plans drawn by Charles R. Greco of Beacon street, Boston, and will be of two stories and basement. It will have a frontage of 90 feet and a depth of 120 feet and will include eight class rooms and an auditorium capable of seating 450. The auditorium will be 40 by 70 feet and will be in the rear of the building, being entered directly from the main cross corridor of the school opposite the main entrance.

The exterior of the building will be of tapestry brick with limestone trimmings, and together with the attractive landscape surroundings will be a thing of beauty. The building will be placed in such a position that a new church can be built between it and the parish house at some future time.

Thus, his friends say, one more of Father Robichaud's fondest hopes will be realized. In the twelve years of his pastorate here he has worked unceasingly for the accomplishment of this project and his most cherished ambition is soon to materialize. Instead of the customary drive for the establishment of the school fund, the necessary contributions came, for the greater part from the returns of whist parties and field days, all of which have been highly successful. These events have entailed much hard work and sacrifice, for the parish is small; but the people, inspired by their beloved pastor, have given unstintingly of their time and money, that they may have a school for their children.

The new building will be a beautiful addition to our distinguished "city of schools" and will stand as a lasting monument to the determination and perseverance of Father Robichaud.

With the new school now definitely assured, the parish field day, which is to be held on Saturday of this week and on Labor Day on the Stearns Playground, will take on the aspect of a celebration. The preparations for the affair have been going on for practically the entire summer, and no stone has been left unturned in the effort to make this field day eclipse any that has ever been held in this city.

The big midway with its myriads of good things, all of the old and usual novelties and as many more new ones, for the greater part made up of practical gifts; fascinating, amusing and ingenious games of skill, entertainments of various kinds, a huge dancing platform and a high class orchestra are only a few of the main attractions.

Actively engaged in the work of putting things in proper shape for the two big days, is Reverend J. M. W. Tremblay, Father Robichaud's popular young assistant who came here recently from Lowell.

COMMUNITY THEATRE

Labor Day has marked the official opening of the theatrical season since the very early days of the amusement business. In recognition of this fact the Community Theatre offers a program of entertainment the equal of which has rarely been seen in Metropolitan Boston.

As a novelty, Manager Sumner has arranged Miss Grace Hushen and her Band who are no strangers and need no introduction to Newton audiences. Miss Hushen, a talented soloist of no mean ability has surrounded herself with a company of twelve young men, trained under the leadership of Mr. Lloyd delCastillo, who are masters in the art of syncopated jazz. They are bound to entertain, and are here for the entire week, changing their numbers on Thursday.

On the first half of the week Jacqueline Logan is featured in "Salome Jane," a fascinating and fast moving story of adventure and romance written by Bret Harte and filmed among the great Redwoods of the Santa Cruz mountains. E. K. Lincoln appears on the same bill in "Women Men Marry."

Thursday's change features another Paramount picture in "Lawful Larceny" starring Hope Hampton, Nita Naldi, Lew Cody and Conrad Nagel, the second feature "The Sunshine Trail" with Douglas MacLean will be sure to entertain those who enjoy the play of the lighter vein.

TENDERED LUNCHEON

Mr. J. W. Barber, of Summit street, Newton, and a well-known Boston advertising man, was tendered a luncheon at the Copley-Plaza Tuesday, by a few of his most intimate friends in the advertising agency business, on the occasion of his 75th birthday.

Mr. Barber has been in the advertising business for more than 57 years, and has been prominently identified with every movement for the betterment of advertising conditions in the country. Since the formation of the American Association of Advertising in 1916, he has represented New England on its executive board.

Mr. Barber started in the advertising agency business in Boston in 1866, with the late George P. Rowell, and has been continuously in the same profession since, for the last 30 years heading an agency which bears his name. He is an ardent devotee of the outdoors, an enthusiast in mountain climbing, being a member up to recently of the Appalachian Club. He has also founded the National Recreation Society to provide a point of contact between the auto tourist and camper and his host, with much success.

A large number of messages were received from all parts of the country, congratulating Mr. Barber on his reaching the three-quarter century mark in such good health and spirits.

CHILDREN'S OUTINGS

Before school closed the children belonging to the Health Classes were given vegetable seeds. Their gardens have done well, one little girl was able not only to supply her own family with carrots, but also the neighbors. This week the children were taken on picnics to Echo Bridge and Charles River, automobiles being provided through the kindness of Miss Eleanor Beers of Newton Highlands and Miss Marian Sumner of Newtonville. The children played games and refreshments were enjoyed which were provided by the Junior Girls' Club of St. Paul's Parish, Newton Highlands.

The national government is the bulwark of safety over which the alarmists and disruptionists have no power. The national banking system is the greatest measure ever devised by a nation to protect the resources of its citizens.

With national bank assurance—plus the careful management for which the Waltham National Bank is known—a checking account is nothing short of a necessity for anybody who has the handling of even a moderate amount of money. Deposits may be made in person or by mail. Interest paid on deposits.

CAMP DAY CLOSES 1923 SEASON

Treasure Hunts, ball games, and special athletic activities occupied the closing days of camp when Newton's football hero, Tudor Bowen disguised as "Squint-Eyed Pete," the pirate, disclosed the general whereabouts of an ancient pirate cache.

Then, right in the middle of the treasure hunt, came the Camp Banquet, on Wednesday evening, August 22nd. Mr. George Conroy, of T. D. Cook & Company's staff, presided at the preparation of the choice menu, as he presided over the cuisine during the entire season. Not only was the gastronomic part of the banquet a great success, but also the program which followed was exceptionally enthusiastic and exciting. Following the speeches of the "Officers of the Day," Messrs. Roger and Robert Salinger and Dwight Shepler of Newtonville, Milton Edgar of Watertown, Roland Hussey of Boston, Raymond A. New York, and Waitstill Sharp, of New York, and Waitstill Sharp, son of Prof. Dallas Lore Sharp of Boston University, the director presented Chef Conroy with a gift from campers and leaders as an appreciation of his two years' excellent service to the camp.

The camp elections were then read and included L. S. Moore of Newtonville, Most Popular; Best All-round Camper, and Most Respected Camper; Lloyd Osborne of Newtonville, Most Helpful Camper; William Richards of Stoneham, Best Natured Camper; Edward Kent of Newtonville, Neatest Camper; Amos Hamburger of Wellesley, Best Story Teller, and Ralph Stonemetz of Brookline, Most Improved Camper.

The Presentation of Emblems, Prizes, and Awards then followed. Every member of Tent 6 received a camp pennant for having performed their camp, tent, and dining-room average with the highest proficiency, their mark being 96%. The Major and Minor League Champions in the five sports, received prize ribbons, and more speeches were in order.

Dr. Townsend bade farewell to the campers, after his season of most efficient work. Mr. Stafford spoke of his pleasant summer and complimented Mr. Hess and Dr. Townsend on their fine work, and then Mr. Hess was introduced. He expressed his appreciation of the co-operation with which he had been received on his first year at Camp Day, and finally on behalf of the leaders, presented Mr. Noble with a gift by which he might remember all the associates whom he was leaving behind as he finished his last year at Camp Day. Mr. Noble concluded the evening's program by pledging the allegiance of the campers and leaders to Mr. Hess, and the Banquet was adjourned.

SALUTE TO DR. PERSON

The following salute to Rev. Dr. Person was given last Sunday morning by Rev. Dr. George S. Butters, who occupied Eliot pulpit.

Dr. H. Grant Person:
 Our pastor, preacher, neighbor, friend and brother: In Eliot Church pulpit, which has been yours for so many years, we salute you this morning. This pulpit has been your throne and in it you have done the best work of your ministry. Your strong, practical and helpful sermons have brought inspiration and comfort to our hearts. We thank God for you and your good wife and we shall always hold you in grateful remembrance. In Scriptural language we say of you both, "They were lovely and pleasant in their lives and in their death they were not divided." We are not saying "farewell" for Heaven is very close to earth this morning and we shall meet again. We do not forget your beloved sons and we shall follow them with our prayerful interest and thoughtful attention. We shall remember your earnest words, your matchless voice, your Christian spirit and your tender sympathy. We shall endeavor to lead better lives and do nobler deeds because of what you have taught us by your life and pulpit message. So we'll carry on "until the day breaks and the shadows flee away."

THE STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX FIVE-PASSENGER TOURING CAR $995

130,000 Owners Know the Value of this Studebaker

Every unit in the new 1924 Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car has proved its dependability in public use.

There are refinements and improvements, of course, but the underlying principles of design and construction which have made enthusiasts of 130,000 purchasers of this model in three years' time, are not radically changed.

In our opinion, the 1924 Light-Six stands out as the greatest value and closest approach to mechanical perfection in moderate priced cars yet produced.

It is practically free from vibration. Studebaker accomplishes this largely by machining the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces. This requires 61 precision operations. It is an exclusive Studebaker practice on cars at this price—and is found only on a few other cars—and they're priced above $2500.

Absence of vibration prolongs car life.

causes slower depreciation, reduces the cost of operation and adds to the enjoyment of driving.

The Light-Six motor embodies the most advanced design known to automobile construction. It represents an achievement in the manufacture of quality cars in big volume.

Aside from its mechanical excellence, the Light-Six is handsome in design, extremely comfortable, sturdy and economical to operate just as it is in initial cost. It is powerful, speedy, has a pick-up range that is seldom taxed and never exhausted, is easy to handle, and convenient to park.

Its enameled all-steel body, one-piece, rain-proof windshield, ten-inch cushions upholstered in genuine leather, and cowl lamps are among many features heretofore to be had only in higher priced cars.

For 71 years the name Studebaker has stood for unflinching integrity, quality and value.

New all-steel body of striking beauty. One-piece, rain-proof windshield with attractive cowl lights set in base. Quick-action cowl ventilator. Door curtains, bound on three sides by steel rods, open with doors. Removable upholstery in tonneau. Door pocket flaps with weights hold them in shape. Upholstered in genuine leather. Large rectangular window in rear curtain. Thief-proof transmission lock. Standard non-skid cord tires front and rear.

ARTIFICIAL GAS

The following brief history of the company serving this city with artificial gas was recently given before the Rotary Club of Newton by Rotarian Fred Howe:—

The first gas company in the country was started in 1816 in Baltimore.
It was not until 1822 that gas was introduced into Boston.

In 1854 the Newton and Watertown Gas Light Company was started. The plant where the gas was manufactured was located on the banks of the Charles River at Watertown, and the coal was transported up the river in barges to the gas plant. This was sixty-nine years ago. At the present time the gas supplied to the city of Newton is manufactured in Everett; piped to this city through high pressure mains, and delivered to our gas holders, from which we distribute it to our customers in Newton.

When this company started in 1854, we had but nine miles of gas mains in the streets, and only 165 consumers. Today we have 275 miles of mains, which is a greater distance than from Boston to New York, and approximately 25,000 customers served by this division.

At the present time there are 946 gas companies operating in the United States, serving a population of forty-seven million people in 4600 different communities. This represents a capital investment of approximately $4,- 000,000,000, and is one of the largest industries in our country today. The gas business today is growing by leaps and bounds. In the year 1921, 363,000 new customers were added in the United States; equal to the population of Kansas City, Seattle, and Minneapolis.

At the present time about 22% of the gas manufactured in the United States is used for industrial purposes.
During the War the Watertown Arsenal used millions of feet of gas per month, for the tempering and heat treatment of steel for our big guns and gun carriages. The Waltham Watch Company today is using over 20,000,000 cubic feet per year, and has one of the largest furnace rooms in this part of the country.

The balance of the gas sold is used for domestic purposes. Practically 25% of the total gas sold is used for lighting in this city, due to the free maintenance service given to the customers by our company. The gasturbines work done by us for our customers costs us approximately $15,000 a year. This work consists of regulating gas ranges, water heaters, and adjusting lights and burners. The workmen's labor is free, charge being made only for material used. We believe that this system is not only profitable for the consumer, but is to the company as well, as it keeps all appliances in perfect condition. Statistics show that the sale of gas per meter in this territory is the highest of any community in New England, due to this effort.

We have unconsciously, perhaps, taken the slogan of the Rotary Club as our slogan "He Profits Most Who Serves Best," and I believe that any Public Utility that strives to serve its customers well will benefit materially by rendering the best service possible.

REAL ESTATE

Papers have today gone on record whereby Julia A. Converse of Newton, conveys to Henry J. O'Meara of Boston, the estate numbered 703 Centre street, Newton. Besides a large mansion house and miscellaneous buildings, there are 10 acres of land all assessed for $55,000. The property is bordered by Lombard, Centre and Cabot streets, and it is the buyer's plan to cut through two avenues, one from Centre street, and one from Lombard street to Cabot street, in accordance with plans prepared by William C. Woolner, landscape architect, and to restrict the property to a high-class, single house development, in keeping with this exclusive residential section.

Henderson and Ross, 632 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre, were the brokers in the transaction.

Henderson and Ross also report the following transactions: Henry J.
O'Meara, of Boston, conveys to Estelle L. Baker of Newton, the property numbered 53 Cabot street, Newton, an 8-room cottage house with 12,331 sq.
ft. of land, formerly a part of the E. W. Converse estate.

Curtis Nye Smith, 68 Lombard street, Newton, has today acquired title to Lot 29 of the Converse Estate to Developments, containing some 5,600 square feet to amplify his own estate. Henry J. O'Meara, of Boston was the grantor and Henderson and Ross the brokers.

Francis Kiseock of Brookline conveys title to Joseph D'Angelo of Newton, of the property 550 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre, 2-family house, 10,230 square feet assessed for $7,000. Henderson and Ross were the brokers.

Eva L. Bailey of Newton conveys title to Frank A. Robart of Boston, of the property 9 Surrey road, Newton, 12-room stucco house, 44,321 square feet. Assessed value $22,700. Henderson and Ross were also the brokers in this transaction.

ORIGIN OF HUMANE SOCIETIES

According to Records, They Were First Instituted in England About a Century Ago.

Humane societies are celebrating the fact that laws for the protection of animals have been in existence for 100 years. In 1822 an act of parliament was passed in England which provided for a punishment for the "ill treatment of cattle," and the act was introduced by a man named Richard Martin, who was called "Humanity Martin" because of his introduction and support of this law. Naturally the passage of the bill brought a great deal of opposition.

The opponents wanted to know why the punishment should not be inflicted for boiling lobsters and eating live oysters. Martin not only passed the law, but was the first complainant under it. He found a driver who was mercilessly beating a donkey. The poor animal was dragged into court, and very much to the surprise of the court room crowd, the driver was found guilty.

Two years after the passage of the act Martin organized the "Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals." Queen Victoria later approved of the organization, and added the word
"Royal" to the title, and Americans derive their own Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals from this excellent example.

MINERS SEEK GOLDEN VEINS

Veterans Know That Presence of Big Nuggets Does Not Always Indicate Rich Deposits.

In a rugged, out-of-the-way region on the ocean side of the coast ranges, in Monterey county, California, gold nuggets have been found of such size as to suggest that this was once a favorite retreat of the proverbial goose that laid the golden eggs.

Matter-of-fact prospectors, however, have sought to find the veins from which such masses of gold, loosened by the weather, were washed into the stream beds. Their search has not been successful, and J. M. Hill, a United States geologist of the Department of the Interior, in a report just published, suggests that the nuggets came from rich superficial pockets in very small veins, and that no large and rich deposits are likely to be found by deep mining.

The coast ranges of California, unlike the Sierra Nevada, are not rich in gold, and the occurrence of these large nuggets is exceptional and illustrates the fact, known to many prospectors, that the discovery of a few large nuggets does not necessarily indicate the existence of a rich deposit of gold ore near the place.

Botanical Ascents.

The "botanical ascents" of Mount Katahdin by an American scientist suggested the possibilities of intellectual entertainment and agreeable acquaintance with nature that are offered by easily ascended mountains.
No mountain that rises to a height of several thousand feet above the neighboring country fails to exhibit a most interesting variety in the succession of the kinds of plants and trees that the climber finds covering it as he ascends.

And not only the person having some knowledge of botany enjoys this rapid change of surroundings, but a similar pleasure is in store for the geologist, who sometimes finds that a mountain is like a prepared section of a part of the earth's crust; for the entomologist, who discovers different insects at the top from those that inhabit the lower slopes; for the ornitho-logist, who finds that birds have preferences as to elevation, and in fact for all students of nature.—Washington Star.

Sure of His Place.

She is a young widow in the early thirties, who recently married one of Indianapolis' popular bachelors. And to his annoyance she often talks of her past husbands. The other evening they were at a dinner when she turned to the guest of honor, "Are you married?"

The guest of honor made a negative reply. "And haven't you ever been married?" came the second question.
Again the guest of honor shook her head. "Oh, the guest boasted airily,
"I've had three. He is my third."

"Yes, and you last, my dear," the husband snapped. "You might just as well know now as at any time that my name is going to be on your tombstone."—Indianapolis News.

An Alabama Morning.

Who is it that does not love to hear the song bird in the cool, shady clump and hear the shrill call of the chantcleer in a neighbor's yard, the clatter of the hoe on the hillside and a daisy's song in the distance, and the command of gee and haw on every hilltop, and the bleating of the calf down in the meadows? Oh, boy! as I pass along the sweet honeysuckle vines by the roadside or wander along the banks of the little creek with beauty and sweetness in the air and wild flowers blooming everywhere. Wouldn't you feel su-premely happy? Just take an early morning walk about two miles out and see if you don't come in contact with some of the things mentioned above.
—Louisville Headlight.

A Born Driver.

Mrs. Newkirk—Why didn't you bring baby back sooner? You've had him out a long time.

The Nursemaid—But he wanted a long ride. Every time I came to a corner he had his arm out of his cab signaling for a turn.

HAD A NIGHT OF TROUBLE

Story Told in Chicago Newspaper Will Be Declared a Libel by the Loyal Scot.

A Scottish laird and his servant,
Sandy, were on their way home on horseback late at night. Both had been partaking liberally of a spirit which enjoys a certain measure of popularity in their country. At a ford where the bank was steep the laird fell head-first into the creek. He scrambled up and shouted to his servant:

"Hold on, Sandy! Something fell off
—I heard it splash!"
Sandy climbed down from the saddle and waded about blindly in the shallow water. At last he seized on the laird.

"Why, it's yerself, mon!"
"No, Sandy," the master declared, stoutly. "It can't be me—here I am." Then he added: "But if it is me get me back on the horse."

Sandy helped the laird to the horse and hoisted him up. In the dark the laird was faced the wrong way round.
"Gie me the reins," the master ordered.

Sandy felt about the horse's rump, and then cried out, clutching the tail:
"It waur the horse's head as fell off—nothin's left but the mane!"

"Gie me the mane, then," the laird directed, stolidly.

So presently, when he had the tail grasped firmly in both hands and Sandy had mounted, the procession began to move. Whereat the laird shouted in dismay: "Haud on, Sandy! It's gaein' the wrong way!"—Chicago Daily News.

LACK THE "WILL TO LIVE"

Cree Tribe of Canadian Indians Will Soon Have Disappeared From the Earth.

The Cree Indians are wards of the Canadian government. When Canada took their country she became responsible for their future. In particular, she pays each one yearly $5 in cash and, in the words of the treaty, this will be paid "while the sun shines and water flows."

But they are dying out. They have "not the will to live." In a certain district within recent times there were 30,000 Indians. Today there are 3,000.
They drink tea to excess. They smoke tobacco to excess. The women and the little children smoke. Some are tubercular. And they keep dying.

They are honest and good natured, but their moral fiber has weakened.
They loaf and slouch around the posts and have the mentality of emotional children and their delicate, weathered faces will soon be but a memory, writes a Hudson Bay correspondent of the London Times.

Just Like Uncle.

Big sister's beau was a college athlete. And because her seven-year-old brother admired ball players so much, she permitted him to come into the library and chat with the beau a while.
Like two pals they talked together about football and basketball. "If you expect to grow up and make a basketball player," the athlete winked at sister as he said it, "you will have to learn to chew tobacco. All athletes chew tobacco."

"Do you?" little brother asked.

The beau nodded. Then little brother turned to sister. "You better lay off him right now," he warned, "cause it made you sick when you had to kiss Uncle Bob when he was here because he chewed tobacco. I'll run and tell dad he needn't worry over you ever marrying this fellow."

And just then little brother was banished from the room.

Concerning Moonlight.

It is probable that very few persons are aware of the fact that the full moon gives several times more than twice the light of the half moon.
They may be still more surprised to learn that the ratio is approximately as nine to one.

Stebbins and Brown, taking advantage of the extreme sensitiveness to light of a selenium cell, measured the amount of light coming from the moon at different phases, with the result above mentioned. The reason for the remarkable difference shown is to be found in the varying angles of reflection presented by the roughened surfaces of our satellite to the sun. The moon is brighter between first quarter and full than between full and last quarter.—New York Herald.

Used to It.

His automobile had balked, as automobiles will, and even if he was Robert Lee Morrell, chairman of the Automobile association, he couldn't persuade it to go. Frantically he labored, with oilcan and monkey wrench, until he was hot, dirty and disgusted, and only the presence of a crowd of children prevented him from expressing himself as the situation demanded. But at last he must speak or explode. Near him was a sweet little maiden with golden hair and deep blue eyes.

"Run away, little girl," he said,
"there are a few things I would like to say."

"Go right ahead," said the child; "my pa has an auto, too."—Exchange.

Indian Dances at 107.

Barelegs, reputed to be one hundred and seven years old, the oldest Indian of the Osage tribe, lives in Grayhorse, Okla. Although he is unusually stooped and always walks with a cane, he enjoys the best of health and participates in all Indian events, even the dances. He carries out the customs of the Osage tribe by wearing blankets and moccasins. He rides a horse and seldom rides in a car.—Daily Oklahoman.
